TRAIN HITS VAN; FOUR DEAD!

Handicapped Adults Are Victims

BY DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

BANGOR — A freight train slammed into a van taking mentally handicapped adults home from night classes late last night, claiming the lives of four of the adult students.

Four other people, including the driver of the van, were injured in the grinding crash near here.

Two of the four victims were pronounced dead at the scene. One was pronounced dead on arrival at a hospital while the fourth succumbed early today in a hospital.

The crash occurred at the Chesapeake & Ohio crossing of CR-378 near 63rd avenue at McDonald, a small community about two miles southwest of here.

Van Buren sheriff's deputies said Harry Minshall, 23, and Mary Towne, 25, both of route 2, Bangor, were pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. O.T. Lorenz, South Haven, a deputy Van Buren county medical examiner.

Frank Whiteman, 32, Morrison street, Bangor, was pronounced dead on arrival at Watervliet Community hospital, deputies said.

The fourth victim, Loretta Levine, 42, 24th avenue, Bloomingdale, died shortly after 7 a.m. this morning at Memorial hospital, St. Joseph, according to a hospital spokesman.

Those who were killed and injured were returning home from night school classes at Paw Paw high school, according to Rick Collins, a supervisor at the Vincent Fritz Work Activities center, a facility for handicapped adults near Bangor.

The van was operated by the Van Buren county Transportation Task Force, a non-profit organization which provides rides for the elderly and handicapped through a federal grant.

Deputies said the van was westbound on CR-378 when it was struck by the northeast bound freight train at 11:08 p.m.

Sheriff Richard E. Stump said that a witness told him the van appeared to stop before continuing across the tracks. The crossing is not equipped with gates or flashers. The sheriff said there did not appear to be enough snow piled up that it would have interferred with the driver's vision.

Those injured in the accident included: Robert Siler, CR-215, Bangor, critical condition at Memorial hospital; and Lon Joseph Grundhofer, 29, route 2, Bangor, fair condition at South Haven Community hospital.

Roosevelt Burrell, 55, CR-380, South Haven, identified as a supervisor at the Work Activity center, was listed i satisfactory condition at Borgess hospital, Kalamazoo. The driver identified by deputies as Carl Friel, 35, route 2, Lawrence, was treated for injuries and released from Watervliet community hospital.

Deputies this morning had few details of the crash saying it remained under investigation. Ambulance attendants and others at the scene indicated Minshall, Miss Towne and Miss Levine were all thrown from the vehicle by the impact of the collision.

The train's engine stopped an estimated one-quarter mile from the crash, but there were no immediate indications as to how fast the train was going.

The injury toll might have gone higher, except that one passenger had already been dropped off at her home minutes earlier.

Minshall and Miss Towne were students at the Van Buren intermediate school district operated Arlington school for the handicapped near Bangor and Miss Levine, Siler, Grundhofe and Whiteman were enrolled at the Work Activity center.

Dr. Marland Bluhm, director of the county mental health department, said they were all mentally handicapped, but not physically handicapped.

The deaths boosted Van Buren county's death toll for the year so far to seven.

Funeral services for Minshall were scheduled for 3 p.m. Saturday in the South Haven Church of Christ where he was a member. Burial will be in Thomas cemetery.

The Stafford-Robbins funeral home, Bangor, said friends may call at the funeral home after 7 p.m. Friday.

Mr. Minshall was born Feb. 28, 1954, in Paw Paw and was a student at Arlington school and Skill center in Lawrence.

Record Cold Spell Ended

BY JERRY KRIEGER
Farm & Features Editor

That warm glow was the temperature going above the freezing point Wednesday for the first time since Christmas Day — a stretch of 46 days.

The mercury touched a balmy 43 degrees early Wednesday afternoon at both the Herb Teichman weather observation station near Eau Claire and at the public works department in Paw Paw.

And it was expected to melt some more snow today and Friday, getting into the 40s both days, before turning a little colder Saturday and Sunday, according to the National Weather Service forecast.

The Weather Service said the 48 days of unbroken freezing temperature was a record since weather records have been kept at Detroit. Teichman said he believed it was a record at his station, although he does not have statistics on this aspect of the weather.

Teichman said the depth of snow on the ground dropped from 20 inches on Tuesday to 18 inches Wednesday. He attributed much of the drop to "settling" rather than melting.

Despite the record period of freezing, Lake Michigan did not freeze all the way across, according to observations by pilots of North Central Airlines and local corporation planes.

They reported a considerable body of open water, especially out from the Chicago side of the lake. One pilot said the ice extended solid from the shoreline here to within about 30 miles of the other side.

Texan May Pay For His 'Pats'

MIAMI (AP) — A Texas oilman who acknowledges patting stewardess' backsides is facing criminal charges because of it.

Audrey Bumgard, 45, of Galveston, Tex., a drilling supervisor on the North Sea project off the coast of Scotland, is free on $1,000 bond awaiting federal grand jury action.

National Airlines stewardess Patti DeWoody told U.S. Magistrate Charlene Sorrentino on Tuesday that one of four pats she received during a Jan. 29 London-to-Miami flight was so strong she almost fell. "I told him each time, 'Cut that out,' and he mimicked me," she said. Another stewardess, Jane Otto, testified that Bumgard slapped her backside twice. She said that after the third slap she told the pilot and he warned Bumgard to stop. But she felt another whack on her bottom a few minutes later and turned to confront Bumgard again.

Defense attorney Donald Ferguson asked if Bumgard had been drunk. Miss Otto said she thought "he had a few" before boarding and said when she served him she "poured out only a little of each drink. I had a feeling he might be a problem," she testified.

FBI agent Gary Dunn said he questioned Bumgard at the Miami airport after the women complained. "He told me he had patted one of the stewardesses 'maybe twice' and that maybe he patted her harder than intended," Dunn said. Magistrate Sorrentino ordered the case held over for a grand jury.

Bumgard is charged under the federal air piracy law, which makes it a felony for any air passenger to intimidate or assault a crew member "so as to interfere with" his or her duties. It's a felony punishable by 20 years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Offer Made To Gunman

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A vengeance-seeking gunman, who held a mortgage company director hostage through a second night in a booby-trapped apartment despite an offer of immunity from prosecution, said today he felt he would be "a marked man" for life.

Anthony G. Kiritsis made the comment in a telephone interview with WIBC radio news director Fred Heckman, to whom he has spoken several times while holed up in his third-floor apartment on the city's west side.

"I've already lost all my self-respect," Kiritsis said. "I'm going to be a marked man all my life."

Kiritsis also told Heckman he was angered by reports that there were no records of his ever working at the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N.Y.

"I was an adviser to the instructors there," he said.

Frustrated police and sheriff's deputies maintained their vigil near the building. Occasionally, one or two uniformed officers walked between a large bus used as a police command center and a neighboring building where the sheriff's department set up headquarters.

A friend took a copy of the immunity offer Wednesday night to the apartment where Kiritsis held executive Richard O. Hall hostage, said George Martz, spokesman for police negotiators.

Martz said the friend read the offer through the booby-trapped front door to Kiritsis, who told him that he didn't want to think about it then and preferred to wait until morning.

Martz said the document, signed by a deputy prosecutor, offered "total immunity" from arrest or psychiatric confinement to Kiritsis, the 44-year-old bachelor who took Hall prisoner on Tuesday morning as part of a plan for revenge against the mortgage company.

"Tony has given us four demands and we met all of them," said Martz.

Authorities learned that Kiritsis recently bought 100 pounds of dynamite and police said they believed his declaration that the apartment has been rigged so that it could blow up.

"We felt it was more than a possibility that the dynamite would be set off," said Martz, a deputy Marion County prosecutor.

Police Call A Halt To $100 Tips

MONTREAL (AP) — A 34-year-old man is undergoing psychiatric examination this week after police found him handing out crisp $100 bills as tips to Montreal waitresses, store clerks and taxi drivers.

Police said the man, who was not identified, inherited $15,000 recently from the estate of his dead mother. He had $3,000 left in $100 bills when he was picked up inside a downtown restaurant.

The money has been placed in a bank by police who are awaiting a psychiatric report from the Royal Victoria Hospital before returning it to him.

Police were called to the restaurant by a taxi driver who received a $100 tip after letting the man out in front.

Police said the same man was arrested at another restaurant Jan. 28 after he poured a pot of hot coffee over a customer's head. At that time, he was sentenced to three days in jail for grievous assault.

A police spokesman said the department will attempt to recover as much of the money as possible. "We will try to convince the people that the man who gave them the money was sick."

Carter Rebounds Deftly On CIA Appointment

Unless the Senate's liberals derail his alternate choice for director of the Central Intelligence Agency as the conservatives upended his first selection, Jimmy Carter's nomination of Admiral Stansfield Turner for the post has the earmark of a two for one sale so dear to a housewife's ever pressed purse.

Politically, it demonstrates Carter's footwork is easily of varsity calibre.

A majority of the Senate Intelligence Committee turned thumbs down on Ted Sorensen, John F. Kennedy's speech wirter, as a risky security venture and a man temperamentally unsuited to the rough and tumble world in which an intelligence agency must work.

Sorensen leaked a number of documents on Viet Nam labelled top secret by the Pentagon in an effort to show his White House chieftain played no part in getting Uncle Sam stuck in the southeastern Asian venture.

Though, as this column pointed out earlier, the documents could scarely be regarded as unveiling vital defense secrets, Sorensen's judgment in pulling them from the file has to be questioned.

While he never made an effort to hide the fact of avoiding military service as a conscientious objector, most of the Committee members thought this could cloud his judgment in crucial situations.

In sending Turner's name to the Senate, Carter is proposing a man with excellent recommendations.

The one objection to him, certain to be raised by the liberals, is the superficial argument he comes from the military and the CIA should be kept under civilian control and direction.

Turner might be called an erstwhile neighbor of our area. He is native of Highland Park, one of Chicago's suburbs.

He and Carter were classmates at Annapolis.

Turner graduated at the head of his class. Jimmy ranked 59th academically.

As Carter remarked, "He was so far ahead of all of us as to be no competition whatever."

Currently, Turner is serving as commander of southern Europe's NATO forces. Prior to that assignment, he held several important command posts in the Navy's seafaring arenas. At one time he directed the systems analysis division under the chief of naval operations and is a former head of the Naval War College.

During his stint at the College, Turner shook up that excellent but venerable institution. This gained him the well deserved reputation as an original thinker prone to lubricate or even drastically revise procedures which have turned rigid.

His tenure in the CNO's system analysis was predicated upon a thorough grounding in statistics.

Turner, however, has consistently stressed the difference between assembling figures and reading their portent.

This has put him at odds with many of his Pentagon conferres who annually bombard the White House with the latest comparison in numbers between tanks, guns, planes and ships held by the Soviet Union and the U.S. This numbers disparity favoring the Soviets is the Pentagon's argument for a larger budget.

Turner has publicy stated this doomsday picture has the peril of discouraging our friends and encouraging our enemies.

Uncle Sam, he contends, would do better to focus his sights on trends rather than upon statistics.

This is the essence of intelligence, an attitude which should stand Turner and the country in good stead if he is confirmed to run our most sensitive intelligence effort of all.

Though not a spit and polish man, Turner is a no nonsense person, one not likely to be drawn into dubious schemes which have characterized some CIA moves in the past.

Like any mortal, the admiral is not puristic in possessing only virtues and no faults.

The composite is what counts and on that score he stands out most favorably.

It'll Cost More To Woo Your Valentine

If your love likes a red, red rose, be prepared to spend more than usual for a Valentine's Day bouquet. Frigid weather has killed off millions of flowers in Florida and driven up the cost of heating greenhouses in northern states. As a result, Americans who traditionally say it with flowers on Valentine's Day — Monday, Feb. 14 — are likely to find higher prices and a smaller selection when they call on their local florists.

For the nation's flower dealers, a successful year hinges on how well they do on those days when most other people aren't doing much of anything: holidays. George Beemer of the Florida Flower Association says "Easter, Mother's Day, Valentine's Day — these are the big days we plant and produce for. Of course, it's very hard to plant a crop that takes 90 days to mature and have it ready within one day of when you want it, what with the vagaries of the weather."

The harsh winter has affected some types of flowers more severely than others. Florida's gladiolus crop has been virtually wiped out, according to Beemer, while the state's supply of pompon chrysanthemums has been depleted by only 20 per cent. Greenhouses in the North, which grow most of the region's fresh roses, no doubt will pass on their higher heating costs to retail florists, who in turn will charge their customers more.

Flower prices usually drop substantially between Valentine's Day and the major spring holidays, Easter and Mother's Day. Growing conditions improve with the approach of summer, and retailers and consumers benefit from the growers' reduced expenses. That pleasant prospect is one more reason to yearn for release from the Big Freeze of 1977.

It Makes You Forget The Cold

Individual citizens bearing the brunt of the weather crisis are warming up over the Senate's approval of hefty pay increases for itself and other top government officials.

WOMEN'S ARTICLE CALLED 'SEXIST'

Editor,

This is in answer to the recent article in your newspaper entitled "Coping With Excess Energy and Time."

As the mother of three small children I have not found it difficult to "cope with excess energy and time", for the simple reason that I have never had the opportunity to indulge in either of those two luxuries.

I can attest, as can any housewife, that the job of cleaning, cooking and shopping, to name just a few — and however monotonous, dull, and repetitive you might find them to be — leave no thought of "coping with excess energy and time." If, on top of being a housewife, you are also a mother, I would imagine you find the idea of leisure time ridiculous and laughable.

But my main objection with the article as a whole was the sexist tone in which it was written. Women for too long have been looked upon as sexual objects and commodities. And I resent the idea, that even if I had free time, I should try to become more of that perfect plastic woman, by finding a new hairdo, manicuring my nails, or trying new makeup. The very idea insults me as a woman.

I also do not agree with the philosophy that as mothers we must entertain our children. I am not part of a vaudeville act, and therefore do not find it necessary to occupy my youngster's time. One of the most viable, ongoing rewards of motherhood is the idea that children will one day be independent, free entities in our society.

But most of all, aren't we humanists tired of the cliches of sexism in education — be it in the home or at school? Why do little girls always sew, bake, and cook? And the little boys hammer, saw, and repair things? Aren't we denying to any girl or boy the rewards that all the above offer if we limit those activities on the basis of sex?

I realize I am only one mother speaking when I say that I want my sons to learn to participate more fully in a homemaker situation, as I want my daughter to appreciate the mechanics of a car and a baseball bat. The options opened to any human being should be unlimited. I, as a mother, woman, and feminist, want my children motivated to choose any of those options.

Do You REMEMBER?

— 10 Years Ago —

Dowagiac — New Mexico Governor David F. Cargo, on a visit to see Michigan's governor and attend several Lincoln day dinners, stopped in Dowagiac Thursday, to revisit the place where he was born and attended school for ten years. He found the town really hadn't changed much, except for a new school and college which he visited. All his friends there, too, found that a governorship hadn't changed the school lad they remembered as outstanding, popular, and already a leader.

— 25 Years Ago —

Chicago radio stations WGN, WMAQ and WLS in recent weeks have broadcast tributes to the late Harry J. Lurkins, for many years county agent of Berrien county, who passed away last December in Florida. In a tribute to Lurkins in the Sunday Farm Review program over WGN, Norman Kraft, the station's farm service director, said, "Living in Berrien County myself, I know something of the very high regard in which Harry Lurkins was held by the farmers there. The memory of his great work will live for a long time in the hearts of those he served so faithfully."

— 50 Years Ago —

The Benton Harbor Congregational new church fund was over the top at $250,000 at 2 o'clock this afternoon and it looked at that hour as though the committee would be $10,000 to the good, making the fund $280,000.

The equipment on Benton Harbor's new aerial fire truck was put into action twice this morning, when the company answered alarms, first from the Brown Ice & Fuel company ice house near West Main street, and again at the Franklin House, on Eighth and Boughton streets. In each instance, ladders longer than any carried on either of the other trucks were brought into play, and enabled the firemen to materially cut down the fire damage to the buildings.

— 75 Years Ago —

South Haven — At a meeting of citizens interested in the proposed Chautauqua assembly for next summer, held on Saturday night, it was voted to incorporate under the laws of the state with a capital of $20,000. The following directors were elected: E.A. Hartman, A.D. Prentice, Dr. L.G. Rhodes, Guy J. Wicksall, L.S. Monroe, W.G. Packard, H.E. Dewey, George W. Griffin and Dr. A.C. Runyan.

A.F. Schoeltz, Benton Harbor, in an advertisement today says it's time to have bicycles re-enamelled for next year's use. This is the first sign of spring.

How Hearty Is Reform Appetite?

WASHINGTON — Eager for, hefty pay raises that would ordinarily incense the folks back home, members of the House and Senate finally seem ready to bite the bullet on Congressional ethics. But how hearty will their appetite for reform really be?

Soon, barring an unforeseen attack of cold feet, every member of Congress will be $13,000 a year richer as part of a package deal providing big salary boosts for more than 20,000 top political appointees, career government executives and federal judges.

A perfectly respectable case can be made — on the merits — in favor of these whopping increases, but the average hard-pressed taxpayer is likely to consider them outrageous. So Congress is hastening to prove its virtue by adopting a new code of ethics like the one President Carter has decreed for executive branch officials.

If Congress is serious about regaining public confidence, it must give the voters an effective opportunity to hold its members accountable for their conduct.

A good starting point, although few on Capitol Hill agree, would be to separate future Congressional pay raises from the semi-automatic salary boosts for all top federal officials which are now recommended quadrennially by the President and enacted unless vetoed by either the House or Senate.

At present, all Congress has to do to receive the pay raise is hunker down and sit on its hands for 30 days after the President's formal recommendation. That hardly seems fair. If the members feel they have earned a raise, they should be forced to vote for it and defend their actions publicly.

This year, judging from the cloakroom chatter, Congress will probably just take the pay raise and run, hoping the voters will forget and forgive by 1978. But the issue isn't likely to disappear.

Members seem more willing to approve another essential reform: full public disclosure of their personal finances and official expenditures.

There's likely to be a lot of debate about proposals to restrict the outside income which senators and House members may earn by giving speeches and writing books and articles. While appealing at first blush, such restrictions are not really fair.

Why should an independently wealthy congressman be entitled to receive unlimited income from interest and dividends on his investments, while a less affluent colleague is denied the right to earn a few extra bucks on the lecture circuit or literary market?

Sen. Robert Packwood, R-Ore., a member of the panel now drafting a Senate ethics code, has a more sensible approach: require each member to make an annual, detailed public disclosure of all outside income, both as to source and amount.

Then the voters can judge for themselves whether a congressman spends too much time pursuing private gain rather than public business, is being bought by special interest groups through inflated "honoraria," or has private holdings which conflict with his official responsibilities.

If official allowances are inadequate to cover legitimate expenses, Congress should vote to raise them. Purely political costs should be paid from campaign funds which are subject to contribution and expenditure limits and must be publicly reported.

Federal Fuel Aid On Way?

WASHINGTON (AP) — If your family budget has been jolted by this winter's home heating bills, there could be some financial relief coming from the federal government.

The Senate Budget Committee is recommending that the government pay up to $250 of the fuel bills of families in areas hardest-hit by the uncommonly cold winter.

And, according to committee chairman Edmund S. Muskie, President Carter is expected to announce his support of such a plan today.

Muskie's panel wrote in the special fuel-bill payment plan Wednesday as it approved an emergency resolution that is necessary before Carter's program of tax cuts and federal spending to stimulate the economy can be considered by Congress.

The committee, which aims to set economic policy for the Senate, approved a $16.8-billion package of tax cuts and spending for the next eight months, about $1.8 billion above what Carter proposed. The House Budget Committee earlier voted for $17.3 billion.

Spanish Red Still Violent

Western media have been making an enormous effort to present the Spanish Communist leader Santiago Carillo as a sort of near-democrat, a non-violent character practically indispensable to Spanish democracy, a gentle "Eurocommunist."

In Spain, however, there are extremely rough characters on both Right and Left, and now, as the bombs go off and the shots ring out in Madrid, it would be wise to pay some attention to this Spanish Communist, Santiago Carillo.

The press in the U.S., so far as I can determine, did not tell us about Carillo's statement of Oct. 10, 1975, as Franco lay dying. Here is the voice of Carillo's "Eurocommunism": "I do not condemn violence. I am not opposed to violence. I accept it when it is necessary, and if the revolution in Spain calls for violence, as it has in other countries, I will be ready to carry it out."

Much of the current violence in Spain, apparently at least, is coming from extremists on the Right, though the latest political murders of police and civil guards in Madrid seem to be the responsibility of the extreme Left.

The British historian Hugh Thomas, strongly anti-Franco in his perspective, tells us how Carillo earned the designation of "assassin of Paracuellos" at age 21.

In 1936, Carillo became the Republican government's chief of public order in and around Madrid, then under siege by Franco's Nationalist forces. Under Carillo's supervision, mass executions of political prisoners were carried out in Paracuellos, a Madrid suburb, and also in nearby Torrejon and San Fernando, as well as in the capital itself. Authenticated lists of the hundreds of victims exist. On Nov. 27, 1936, for example, 105 prisoners were taken from the Anton jail and shot. It is entirely clear that under Carillo's supervision, the extermination of political prisoners in the Madrid region went forward relentlessly, and the victims numbered in the thousands.

There is no doubt, of course, that Right-Wing extremists were doing the same kind of thing elsewhere at the time. No claim is being made here that Carillo was unique in his violence. But the media are not now trying to sell us someone like Nationalist General Mola as a "Eurofascist."

Carillo's extremism, however, does appear to have a special character. As chief of public order in Madrid, for example, he flagrantly violated the principle of diplomatic immunity by ordering an assault upon the Finnish embassy in order to seize Spaniards who had taken refuge there.

A couple of years earlier, in 1934, Carillo was a leader of Spanish Socialist Youth when its thugs murdered a Falangist student. Commenting on this in a speech, Carillo told his followers: "Don't be weak. Squashing an agent provocateur should give us the same sensation as squashing a cockroach."

It would be tempting to say that this was all a long time ago, in another era, and that Carillo has since mellowed. His Oct. 10, 1975, rhetoric, however, suggests that we should be deeply skeptical. It appears to be completely continuous with the youthful Carillo.

JAMES F. MURPHY
BUW Chairman

Murphy Will Head United Way Drive

James F. Murphy, president of Inter-City bank has been named general chairman of the 1977 Blossomland United Way campaign in the Twin City area, accordingto Mrs. Marion Hughes, BUW president.

Murphy was vice chairman of the successful 1976 campaign, headed the loaned executive division in 1975, and served past campaigns in the special gifts division. He also worked with a special appeals team in 1974.

Murphy said changes in campaign structure this year include two new divisions. He said a Pacesetters group has been created to concentrate on early efforts in 8 to 12 employe campaigns. Some BUW area businesses find it feasible to conduct employe solicitations at an earlie time than the regular fall campaign.

A Film Producing division has been created to organize a 16mm sound-color depiction of BUW area services. Production of local films over the last three years has met an increasing interest in local BUW servied programs. Murphy said. Films were formerly produced by a section of the Public Relations division.

Divisions included in the 1977 BUW campaign structure are: In-Plant Rally, Loaned Executive, Labor Participation, Film Producer, Public Relations, Orientation and Motivation, Materials, Major Firms A, Major Firms B, Commerce and Industry (renamed from the former Industry - Commerce - Labor - Construction division), Professional, Public, Special Gifts, Metro A, Metro B, and Pacesetters. Volunteers leading the individual divisions comprise the Campaign Cabinet.

Murphy said nine division chairmen have been recruited to date, with announcements of their appointments to be issued in the near future. Ultimately, hundreds of Blossomland United Way volunteers will join the annual drive to raise operating funds for some 36 local, state, and national human service agencies. In nearly 35 yearly drives since the fund started in 1942, volunteer fund raisers have brought in over 12 million dollars in pledges for 99.99 per cent of total goals.

Orchard Rezoning Hearing Feb. 16

St. Joseph township planners will hold a public hearing at their February meeting about a request to rezone a 12-acre peach orchard owned by Nye's Orchards so a 20-lot subdivision can be built.

The hearing will be Feb. 16 at 7:30 p.m. at Fairplain West school, according to Planning Commission Chairman Ernest Knauf.

Rezoning the land from one single-family designation to another was suggested by planners in December, when Atty. Jerrold Nye presented a plan to create Highwoods Estates subdivision number 5 on two acres, Knauf said. The orchard surrounds Nye's Apple Barn, northeast of the intersection of I-94 and US-33, Knauf said.

Nye said the average-size of lots in the proposed subdivision is 10,000 square feet. The request is to rezone the land from R-1, which requires lots of at least 20,000 square feet, to R-2, which allows lots 12,000 square feet or larger, he said.

Knauf said planners wanted the entire 12-acre block rezoned at once for uniformity. Nye, whose family also developed and sold Highwoods Estates 1 through 4, said development of Highwoods 5 will complete the family's building plans in that area.

Sewers for the proposed subdivision are already present at the site, Nye said, and drainage isn't a problem. If planners recommend rezoning to the township board, they will then continue studying Nye's plat plan at the meeting, said Knauf.

COMMUNICATION FOR THE DEAF: The Michigan Department of Education Vocational Rehabilitation Service office at Fairplain Plaza has become the 12th office of the agency to install a teletypewriter (TTY) for the deaf. Demonstrating are Mrs. Dennis (Bonita) Rodell, Coloma, and Mrs. John (Rexalee) Ireland, Bridgman, both of whom are hearing impaired. (Staff photo)

Printed Word Helps Deaf Talk By Telephone

The deaf are stymied from making conventional telephone calls, but they can communicate over telephone lines when the printed word is used. To assist the deaf in communicating, the Michigan Department of Education's Vocational Rehabilitation Service office at Fairplain Plaza has installed a teletypewriter (TTY) for the deaf.

John Helme, supervisor of the office, said TTY permits the deaf to communicate over telephone lines with their messages ending up in print on the teletypewriter.

Helme said TTY service at the office is available to any deaf person without charge for use of the teletypewriter, but the user is required to pay telephone toll charges. Some 6,000 teletypewriters in the United States have been modified for use by the deaf. The TTY for the deaf includes a special terminal unit, an electronic device that has a cradle for a telephone receiver. To make a call, a deaf person places the telephone receiver in the cradle of the terminal unit and dials another person who also has a machine. Lights are used to alert the deaf of calls which are answered by placing the telephone receiver in the terminal unit cradle to activate to the teletypewriter.

Helme said deaf who can't touch type send messages by the hunt and peck method. A TTY service useful this time of the year is the toll-free number established by the IRS to provide income tax assistance to the deaf and hearing impaired.

Helme said the Fairplain Plaza office of the Vocational Rehabilitation Service is the 12th of that agency to install TTY for the deaf. The plaza office is on the lower level of Goldblatt's and is open 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. TTY for the deaf has existed since the terminal unit was invented in 1964.

Helme said Dennis Rodell, of Coloma, who sells, repairs and installs TTY said there are about 15 in use in Berrien county.

Negro Colleges Collect $16,738

Contributions to the United Negro College Fund from the Twin Cities area totaled $16,738 for the 1976 campaign, according to a report from the Detroit headquarters of the fund organization.

Dennis W. Krueger, director of industrial and community relations for the Laundry Resident Group of Whirlpool Corp., was chairman for the campaign here.

Statewide, the fund drive raised over $733,000, the report stated.

Famed Scholar Lends Name To Fund Drive

Dr. Margaret Mead has accepted the honorary chairmanship of the 1977 fund campaign of the Planned Parenthood Association of Southwestern Michigan which will begin Feb. 14.

Announcement of the acceptance of the honorary post by Dr. Mead, was made today by Mrs. Charles (Nancy) Worthington, local campaign chairman.

Goal this year is $62,000, according to Mrs. Worthington.

Dr. Mead — anthropologist, psychologist, teacher, lecturer, writer, and observer of change in the times — has been a frequent visitor to Southwestern Michigan and has spoken at programs sponsored by the Benton Harbor-St. Joseph branch of the American Association of University Women.

Dr. Mead who is a long-time supporter of Planned Parenthood Federation of America, Inc., spoke at Lake Michigan college in April 1972, to 700 persons, including students, during a program sponsored by Planned Parenthood Association of Southwestern Michigan.

Dr. Mead is a niece of Mrs. William Vanter II and a cousin of Robert Upton, both of St. Joseph.

She has been associated with the American Museum of Natural History in New York for 50 years while establishing her scientific and professional reputation as a world-renowned scientist. She is presently curator emeritus of ethnology at the museum which recently announced establishment of the Margaret Mead chair on the occasion of Dr. Mead's 75th birthday. The chair will be supported by the $5,000,000 Margaret Mead Fund for the Advancement of Anthropology and is offered to distinguished scholars for the investigation and study of human society.

In recent years, Dr. Mead has studied contemporary Western culture in the light of knowledge gained during field work in small, homogeneous and stable societies and this study has included problems of family life, food, population, environment, cultural change and human settlements in a global context.

According to Mrs. Worthington, Dr. Mead's comments on social change and the difference between generations have stimulated wide interest on both sides of the "generation gap" and her defense of the change in "Culture And Commitment" (1970) has resulted in people on both sides of the gap to look at social change with more understanding.

Planned Parenthood Association of Southwestern Michigan, with headquarters at 785 Pipestone, Benton Harbor, is a non-profit, voluntary organization which will celebrate its eighth anniversary in March.

The center houses administrative, education, and outreach offices and provides a place for education of new family planning patients, teen rap, community workshops, and other activities related to family planning.

The association, since its founding in 1969, has provided the outreach, education, and prevention aspects of the Family Planning program in cooperation with Berrien, Cass, and Van Buren county health departments, recipients of Department of Health, Education, and Welfare grants for family planning and providers of birth control clinics in their respective counties, according to Mrs. Worthington.

Planned Parenthood also provides pregnancy testing and counseling at the Benton Harbor center, and since February, 1972, has conducted a Vasectomy clinic to serve Southwestern Michigan.

The Association is governed by a board of volunteers from the three participating counties.

Officers include Robert C. Upton, chairman; Mrs. Robert (Vera) Van Antwerp, president; Sammie Smith and R.C. Gayheart, MD, vice presidents, Joseph Christoffel, treasurer, and F.A. (Mike) Jones, legal counsel.

The association is one of 190 affiliates of the Planned Parenthood Federation of America, Inc., the largest national voluntary health services network.

Parents Suing For Damages

The parents of a St. Joseph girl have filed suit in Berrien Circuit court seeking damages for the death of their daughter in a 1975 auto crash.

The plaintiffs, Samuel and Charlene Sukupcnak, seek any amount over $10,000 for the death of Roxane Sukupchak, 17, who died on Feb. 12 when the car in which she was a passenger went off Roosevelt road in Lincoln township and struck a tree.

Named defendants in the suit were Christie J. Jackson, of Stevensville, alleged driver of the car, Helen R. Machs, of Benton Harbor, identified as the owner of the car, and Rieer and Helen Burns, owners of the Red Coach lounge. The suit claims the tavern furnished intoxicants to the driver of the car.

Keep Faucet On, SJ Users Reminded

Users of the St. Joseph water system have been reminded to leave their taps running to prevent waterline freeze-up during the current cold spell. "The frost is so deep, we're having problems keeping lines unthawed," Jim Talbot, director of St. Joseph public works, said.

He said one faucet should be left on 24 hours a day with a stream about the diameter of a lead pencil. Talbot issued the appeal to water users in the city of St. Joseph, the townships of St. Joseph and Lincoln and the villages of Stevensville and Shoreham.

Bean Prices Are Lower

SAGINAW — Consumer price of pork and beans and similar products is coming down, according to Richard Leach Jr., chairman of the Michigan Bean Commission.

In a report this week from the bean industry, Leach said, "Wholesale prices are down $1 to $1.20 per case." A bean grower himself near Saginaw, in the heart of the Wolverine state's bean-producing area, Leach said, "The canners' reduction in bean prices is given to stores through volume allowances and promotional and advertising allowances.

"The reduction in prices by canners comes on top of the lowest market prices to farmers in a number of years, and they all add up to one of the best food bargains available in a store today," Leach said.

"Something that makes beans even more valuable as a good food buy is the disclosure that beans are an excellent source of food fiber roughage," Leach says. "We've known for a long time that beans are rich in protein. Now we know that a cup of baked beans with pork and tomato sauce provides 3.8 grams of fiber — a long step to the five to six grams recommended daily. Other beans — kidneys, pintos, black beans and others — are high in fiber, too."

Many Women Unaware Of Hypertension Dangers

Any woman whose image of a high blood pressure candidate is a tension-ridden executive who lives on too little exercise and too many martini lunches, should revise that picture, the Health Insurance Institute says.

The fact is that nearly half of the nation's known 23 million people with high blood pressure are women, a great many of them housewives, the Institute reports.

The disease which affects about one in 10 Americans is no respecter of sex, status or race, and contrary to what many people think, women are generally more susceptible to the disease than men at certain times of life.

Although a woman may have had normal blood pressure most of her life, the chances of her becoming hypertensive increase considerably as she approaches or passes menopause. Studies also show that black women of all ages have a higher incidence of high blood pressure than white women, for reasons unknown to doctors.

Younger women are also more vulnerable to hypertension as they become pregnant. A woman who may already have a raised blood pressure may find that her condition becomes more severe before she gives birth. Some women who may never have been hypertensive before, can develop it during pregnancy. According to doctors, the high blood pressure that develops at this time will sometimes subside after the birth of a child.

Some women may also become vulnerable to the disease while taking contraceptive pills. Medical authorities advise having your blood pressure taken before the pill is prescribed with checkups at half-year intervals.

Other women susceptible to hypertension are those with a history of high blood pressure in the family.

Since hypertension in most instances does not have any striking symptoms, a great many women, like men, may not be aware that they have the problem. As a result, only a small portion of people are being treated today, reports the Health Insurance Institute.

Among those individuals who know they have the disease, it is estimated that only one-fourth are considered to have it controlled. Yet, if left unchecked, hypertension can lead to heart attacks, strokes and kidney damage.

While there isn't any sure cure as yet for hypertension, the important thing to remember, says the Institute, is that in most cases, it can be controlled. A number of drugs are available that can help the majority of the nation's blood pressure victims.

Other treatment often prescribed by doctors includes losing weight, using less salt, sticking to a low-cholesterol diet, reducing smoking and maintaining an exercise program.

CHILDREN'S DENTAL HEALTH

Plan First Visit To Dentist

Editor's Note: This is the fourth in a series of six articles on dental health published by The Herald-Palladium, in cooperation with the Lakeland Valley Dental Assistants Society, in observance of National Children's Dental Health Week Feb. 6-12.

I want to make sure that my two-year-old son has good teeth all his life. When should I take him to the dentist for the first time and how should I prepare him for the first visit?

A child should visit the dentist before all of his primary teeth have appeared. The average child will have his full set of 20 primary teeth by the age of two or two-and-one-half. Because these teeth are so important to a child's future well-being and appearance, it is important that they be well taken care of.

You can help your child develop a positive attitude about this first trip to the dentist that will influence his feelings about dental care throughout life. You will want to explain in a very general way what the child can expect. For example, the dentist will examine the child's teeth. He may also clean them and take x-ray pictures to detect any hidden dental problems. These early examinations are important because surveys show that 50 per cent of two-year-old children have one or more decayed teeth.

During the first visit, the dentist will discuss with you a program for regular dental care for your child, scheduling future visits to meet individual needs. Twice a year may be sufficient for some children, whereas closer supervision may be necessary for others.

By helping the child establish a friendly relationship with the dentist, you can eliminate fears that could lead to his neglecting needed dental care later on in life.

Sewing Hints

By DOROTHY KING

Practically every time a garment is constructed, some kind of ease stitching is used. It is used to control a slight amount of fullness in a seam edge before it is joined to another seam edge which does not have any fullness.

Use longer stitches about eight to ten stitches per inch. Place a single row of stitches on the seamline. Ease stitches are always used around a sleeve cap where more fullness is needed.

Ease-plus stitching can be used in some areas that require a moderate amount of easing. The fullness is controlled by crowding the threads of the fabric together while stitching.

This method can be used on the back shoulder seam or for the top edge of a turned hem on a slightly flared skirt.

Press your right index finger against the back of the pressure foot while stitching for several inches. Fabric will pile up against your finger. Use your left finger to release fabric and repeat procedure until entire edge is eased.

To Attend National Forum

WATERVLIET – Mrs. Olga M. Friske, Watervliet, national junior vice commander of Disabled American Veterans Auxiliary, plans to attend Women's Forum on National Security in Washington, D.C., Sunday through Tuesday, Feb. 13-15, at the Washington Hilton hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. August Kuehl of Bainbridge will accompany her.

There are 16 participating organizations representing 1.5 million women through their membership in these organizations, according to Mrs. Friske.

Disabled American Veterans Auxiliary has been a member of the Women's Forum since its first meeting in 1953. Mrs. Friske says the American Legion is the chairing organization for the forum this year, theme of which is "Let's Keep the U.S.A. Number One."

Begin Pilot Program For Women

Michigan State university Cooperative Extension Service has begun a pilot program in 25 counties in an effort to involve more women in local community public affairs decision making..

Among those participating in the pilot program are Mary Search, Berrien County Extension Home Economist, and George Mansell, Allegan County Extension Director.

Public Affairs Community Education (PACE) currently involves 40 extension personnel throughout the state — including 14 county extension directors, several home economists and district extension leaders.

They are being trained to identify areas in their respective communities where educational programs concerning decision making are needed.

This four year program, now in its second year of operation, is being made possible by a $67,000 grant from the United States Department of Agriculture. Eventually, the PACE program will be extended to all Michigan counties through extension services.

"We need more women in public policy decision making to get all points of view. While we are focusing on educating women to leadership roles, the program will actually involve members of the whole community," says Elner Olstrom, MSU Extension director for natural resources and public policy programs.

Men and women in the counties will attend educational programs surveying local and state government, community problems and other government processes.

The program is modeled after the Extension's New Horizons program which focuses on developing leadership capabilities in members of the community. "Hopefully, PACE will encourage more women to become involved in their communities, whether as elected officials or voluntary contributors in the political process," says Olstrom.

In addition to government issues, the programs will look closely at crime, education, land use, drug problems, family roles and other issues affecting communities. The partitipants will also decide areas for study.

Others at MSU involved with the project are: Gaye Benson, project coordinator; Dr. James Shaffer, project leader in public policy, and Dr. Doris Wetters, project director for family living education.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Wants Illness Kept Secret

Dear Ann Landers: I've read your column for years and agree with you nine times out of ten. It's bizarre that I now find myself writing for advice.

A few months ago, I learned I have an incurable (and possibly terminal) illness. It was a blow at first, but I've adjusted my thinking and have no trouble handling it.

The problem is my husband. He insists that our children be told. We have two married daughters and a 15-year-old son. I see no reason to upset their lives prematurely. Right now I feel good and the symptoms are easy to hide. To my way of thinking nothing can be accomplished by telling them news that may cause undue anxiety.

My husband insists that as members of the family they have a right to know. I say, since I'm the person with the illness, I have the right to keep it from them as long as possible — if I choose.

I don't like what this is doing to my relationship with my husband. I think he will listen to you. Please be on my side. Thanks, Ann. — Arlene

Dear Arlene: I AM on your side — and you don't need to thank me. Although you didn't identify the illness, I have an idea what it is. Your chances for winning the battle are a lot better than they were ten years ago.

If you don't want the children to know until you feel like telling them, your wishes should be respected. Insist on it.

How To Cope

Dear Ann: Recently a reader asked, "How does one cope with an 'unhappy' marriage?" I have some answers.

1. I ask myself from time to time, "How perfect am I?"

2. I look at the troubles my friends are having with THEIR husbands, and my problems seem a lot smaller.

3. I know my husband will always take care of the mortgage payments, taxes, the phone, gas and the electric bills, etc.

4. He would never go through my purse or listen in on my phone conversations.

In other words, he trusts me because I have earned it.

5. He eats whatever I prepare and never complains.

6. He is solicitous if I am ill. (He really cares.)

7. A fair argument with some feathers flying can be a wonderful safety valve.

After all, who is completely happy all the time? — Cherished in Ohio

Dear Cherished: You sound like a realistic, feet-on-the-ground lady. If the wives out there who think their marriages are lousy will read your list carefully, they'll feel a lot better.

Bit Tales

Dear Ann: My neighbor makes extreme statements about people we both know. Some of the things she says are hard to believe and impossible to prove, unless you went right to the person and asked him to his face. Most of her information is so personal, I wouldn't dare.

When I show signs of disbelief she gets out the family Bible and takes an oath on it. What do you think of this? — Big Q.

Dear Q.: People of integrity expect to be believed. They also know time will prove them right and are willing to wait. To a liar, a Bible oath means nothing. It wouldn't impress me in the slightest.

Even if drinking is the "in" thing in your crowd, it needn't crowd you out. Learn the facts from Ann Landers' booklet, "Booze and You — For Teenagers Only." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1490, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Opening lead — Q ♦

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Old man Z who used to be the declarer in the old auction bridge columns was engaged in a game of rubber bridge for a change.

Hence, when his partner gave him a positive response to his opening two bid, Z checked for aces and put the contract in seven spades to score the 100 honors in addition to the rubber and grandslam bonuses.

West opened the queen of diamonds Z played dummy's ace and remarked, "This looks a lot like a hand Sidney Lenz had me play in 1927. It looks as if East is going to show up with five trumps to the ten and I have better plan a double coup."

Then Z came to his hand by ruffing a low diamond and cashed two high trumps. Sure enough, West showed out on the second trump lead.

Now Z cashed his ace and king of hearts and led a club to dummy's queen. This was followed by another diamond ruff to leave Z with three trumps and two clubs. East who had been following suit right along was down to three trumps, one diamond and one club.

Now Z went to dummy with the ace of clubs, led the queen of hearts, showed his hand and claimed.

Note that if Z had not ruffed that diamond at trick two he would not have been able to develop the coup.

Ask the Jacobys

The new duplicate laws about reviews of the bidding are very complicated. They provide that at your turn to bid you can demand a review and that you can also demand a review when it is your turn to play to the first trick. Later on, any player may ask the meaning of any bid made by an opponent or may ask what the final contract is and if it is doubled or redoubled, but he may not ask who doubled or redoubled.

Dr. Lester Coleman

I've had a mild heart attack and they made me give up smoking entirely. Now they're after me to give up drinking alcohol because they say it, too, is bad for the heart. Couldn't I cheat a little with both? — Mr. R.R.R., Wash., D.C.

Dear Mr. R.:

It's well established that "cheating" with tobacco can ultimately cheat you of years of added life.

There is no question about the fact that all tobacco, especially cigarettes, reduces the flow of blood to all organs of the body. The heart in particular is affected by the spasm of the arteries that's caused by tobacco.

A simple rule is laid down for all people who have ever had coronary heart disease. That is, that smoking is the surest, if slowest, way to commit suicide.

More and more evidence is coming to light that alcohol, too, has a bad effect on the muscle of the heart. The cells and the nerve complex within the heart that control its regularity can also be affected even by moderate, but sustained, drinking.

Most cardiologists are in agreement with the statement made by Dr. Dean Mason and Dr. Leigh Segel, of the University of California. They state, "Present evidence indicates that alcohol exerts a toxic action on the myocardium (heart muscle) and... is responsible for a depression of its mechanical performance."

They also say, "Treatment of alcoholic heart disease always includes total abstention which, in some cases, has been shown to reverse some forms of this condition."

You must know that neither your family physician nor your cardiologist establishes rules that are meant to punish you. Rather, they outline regimes that are meant to prolong your life, giving it not only longevity, but also quality.

At first, the restrictions imposed on you may seem to be too rigid. But when you begin to regain greater activity and normal productivity you, too, will agree that what seems deprivation is, indeed, a gift.

McBride Likely Steel Winner

PITTSBURGH (AP) — In a show of support for the moderate policies of retiring president I.W. Abel, United Steelworkers Union members have apparently picked Lloyd McBride as his successor over rebel Edward Sadlowski.

Unofficial returns gathered by The Associated Press gave the 60-year-old USW director from St. Louis a 298,877 to 198,472 margin with about 4,000 of the union's 5,000 locals reporting.

Abel, who retires in June from the $75,000-a-year post atop the 1.4 million-member union, had endorsed McBride as his successor.

"We could claim victory and be safe," McBride said from his home in St. Louis. "We've agreed to wait."

Almost 600,000 votes were cast in the hotly contested election. Some of the largest locals said results would not be tabulated until at least today.

However, campaign workers for Sadlowski, the brash, 38-year-old director of the USW's Chicago-based district, said returns they received showed their candidate with a 171,591 to 165,890 lead over McBride with 2,170 locals reporting.

Sadlowski's camp hinted the election results would be challenged.

"There's evidence of vote fraud almost everywhere," said campaign worker Greg Palost at the Chicago headquarters.

McBride's strongest support came from outside the basic steel industry and among the union's older voters. He did well in Canada, the South and West.

A negotiator for the union, McBride has never worked in a steel mill, though he quit school at age 14 to work in a factory.

"A McBride victory means a continuation of stable relations with our industries and our membership," Abel said of the man he chose to succeed him.

McBride campaigned on the record of the Abel administration, which has increased union membership to the largest in the AFL-CIO and pushed steel wages to the front of all industries.

McBride also supports the controversial Experimental Negotiating Agreement (ENA), which bans nationwide strikes in favor of binding arbitration of unresolved contract issues.

Sadlowski called himself a maverick. McBride charged his outspoken opponent was duped by outsiders who wanted to destroy the union.

A third-generation steelworker who won his directorship in the court-ordered rerun of a fraudulent election, Sadlowski claimed to represent the unhappy rank and file.

He said the union's leadership was too close to management and not close enough to membership and he called the ENA a sellout. He vowed not to renew it if elected and promised to put muscle back into the union's bargaining stance.

Sadlowski expected his support to come from basic steel, where the USW dissident movement has its heart. But he did not do well enough in Buffalo, Detroit, Pittsburgh and Ohio to overcome McBride's lead.

Topless Tavern Owner Raps 'Double Standard'

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Lounge manager Joe Redner, whose topless go-go dancers are constantly getting arrested, says city officials were operating under a "double standard" when they allowed topless dancing at a celebration in a city-owned hall.

"These are the people who are prosecuting us and saying that nude dancing is lowering our community standards. But it is all right when the girls dance for them," Redner said of the civic leaders who attended the annual Gasparilla festival at Curtis Hixon Hall on Monday night.

Topless dancers at Redner's Night Gallery have been arrested hundreds of times since last fall.

Night Gallery dancers Sharon Thomas and Kenna Hummon said they were hired to perform at the festival, which celebrates the deeds of Jose Gaspar, a Robin Hood-like pirate.

The girls, both in their 20s, said they came on stage in sheer black negligee tops and bikini bottoms to dance for some 500 people dressed in pirate garb, many of them prominent businessmen and personalities.

Miss Hummon said the crowd urged them to shed their tops, and the man who hired them told them a local judge in the group had assured they wouldn't be arrested if they did. So the tops came off.

Capt. G. Pierce Wood of Ye Mystic Krewe of Gasparilla said in a prepared statement that his organization "acknowledges that such action was certainly in poor taste and hereby apologizes to the city administration and to the citizens."

Acting Mayor Lloyd Copeland said on Wednesday that arrests, were unlikely in connection with the performance — although a topless dancer and the manager of the Night Gallery were jailed Tuesday night for the show there.

Kathleen Sweeny, 21, of Tampa, was arrested Tuesday for the fourth time this month and was charged with nude dancing. Her bond was $252.

Club manager Thomas G. Scechiari, 35, was charged for the 37th time since last October for allowing the exhibition. His bond was $502.

Police officials said no officers were in Curtis Hixon Hall when the hired dancers went topless. City Atty. Henry Williams said that in his opinion a city ordinance banning topless dancing was not violated because the ordinance "applies to a commercial establishment."

Monday's performance, on a 10-foot platform with an eight-piece band for accompaniment, lasted about 20 minutes, according to the girls, who said they were promised $30 to $40 apiece.

Miss Hummon said the people in the audience "were feeling no pain. They were ... getting in good spirits for the parade, I guess. They were a good audience, but they didn't tip."

Balloonist Lands In Montana

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — Balloonist Karl Thomas brought his 92-foot hot-air craft to earth northwest of here Wednesday after floating across the Continental Divide in snow flurries and near-zero visibility.

Thomas landed because he was facing "about 150 miles of very rugged mountainous terrain" and needed more propane for the burner that provides hot air to the balloon, a spokesman in the ground crew said.

Strong ground winds prevented Thomas from taking off again Wednesday afternoon, but he planned to resume his attack on the transcontinental balloon record today, the spokesman said.

Thomas, a Michigan airport owner, trucked his balloon to Montana on Tuesday after being grounded by lack of wind for 72 hours in Arizona. He chose the Missoula area because it was no farther east than the last point where the balloon had landed.

Thomas, 28, began the cross-country balloon flight Feb. 1 at Arcadia, Calif., and hopes to break the 41-day record held by publisher Malcolm Forbes.

He's Warm In Solar Home

AMHERST, Mass. (AP) — Mike Edds says he's hanoticed the cold during this coldest winter in years, and he's used only one-fourth the fuel it normally would take to heat a house the size of his. But then most houses don't have triple-glazed windows, three inches of insulation inside the doors and copper plates absorbing sunlight on the roof. Edds is resident engineer of Solar Habitat 1, an experiment in alternate-energy housing at the University of Massachusetts here. He and his wife Peggy live rent-free in the home.

Whitstle Scares Off Pirates

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Pirates brandishing guns and knives boarded American freighter off Colombia last month, but when crewmen blew the whistle, they began quaking in their boots and took off with only a watch and a cigarette lighter for booty.

According to a formal report written by third mate Coy B. Deaton, the S.S. Mason Lykes reached the harbor of Buenaventura, Colombia, at midnight on Jan. 27.

Soon afterward, 15 men armed with guns and knives came alongside in a pair of 20-foot boats powered by outboard engines and boarded the anchored ship. The only gun aboard was a pistol locked in a safe in the captain's cabin, so the crew blew repeated blasts on the whistle.

Eyes Rhodesia Chrome Ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, in a move underscoring the Carter administration's support for black majority rule in Africa, is expected to urge Congress to reinstate a total ban on U.S. imports of Rhodesian chrome. Vance's endorsement today of a bill to halt the imports is intended as a signal of American intentions to African black leaders, officials said.

'The Best' Found Guilty

LONDON (AP) — "We're the best there's been," Irish Republican Army guerrilla Eddie Butler boasted to Scotland Yard detectives who captured him and three other IRA men after a two-year campaign of terror in English cities. The Yard men grudgingly agree. "They were considered the most important terrorists in Britain until they were caught," a senior officer commented. "They were all Public Enemy No. 1." Wednesday night, Butler and the other three were convicted at London's Old Bailey court Wednesday on 25 counts of murder and bombing. Sentencing was set for today.

Wants Ties With U.S.

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — President Agostinho Neto of Angola, in his first meeting with an American official since his Marxist faction took power in 1975, has told Ambassador Andrew Young he wants to establish relations with the United States. Neto said "he and the Russians are friends although there were many things they disagreed on, and he didn't see why we couldn't be friends although there were many things we disagreed on," Young reported after their meeting Tuesday night in Kaduna, the capital, of northern Nigeria.

Denies Using 'Clout'

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State Sen. Bill Huffman has denied any involvement in the disbarment of a House member who is a political opponent. Huffman criticized Rep. Monte Geralds Wednesday for alleging on the House floor that Huffman used his political clout to help obtain Geralds' disbarment. The two Madison Heights Democrats were opponents for Huffman's old House seat, which Geralds won after Huffman's election to the Senate. Huffman, like Geralds, requested hearings by a legislative ethics committee on the matter. But Senate Majority Leader William Faust, D-Westland, chairman of the House-Senate Conflict of Interest Committee, said Geralds would have to present more evidence of Huffman's involvement to warrant an investigation. Geralds was disbarred shortly after winning the Aug. 3 primary election, in which Huffman supported his opponent. Accused of misusing an heiress' funds, Geralds won the general election despite his disbarment.

Syndrome Kills Kent Resident

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Guillain-Barre syndrome killed a Kent County man this week, but county authorities said the death was not reported at once to state officials as it should have been.

Robert A. Herbst, 46, of Byron Center, died Monday at St. Mary's Hospital. But Dr. Henry Olen, deputy director for the county health department, said the death was not reported properly.

Olen said neither he nor state health officials knew of Herbst's death until a reporter asked about it late Wednesday. The request for prompt reporting of Guillain-Barre deaths is part of a national effort to learn if they are linked with swine flu vaccine.

Herbst had such a shot about three weeks before he became paralyzed in late December.

There have been 38 cases of the syndrome reported recently in Michigan. Three of them have resulted in death, the state Public Health Department said Wednesday.

Gunman Frees Hostages, Surrenders After Siege

By DAVID ESPO
Associated Press Writer

SILVER SPRING, Md. (AP) — A young man armed with two rifles holed up in a suburban Washington, D.C., bank for seven hours, first taking and then releasing unharmed seven hostages before surrendering to police early today.

The man, identified as Stephan Gregory, 27, of Silver Spring, Md., walked into the bank with two rifles after an argument with his girlfriend, police said. He drank several cans of beer and munched on a steak sandwich while negotiating with police by phone and occasionally spraying rifle shots through the door of the bank and into its ceiling.

Sgt. Douglas McFee of the Montgomery County, Md., police said after the siege ended that Gregory made no threats and few demands. He said the gunman placed a rifle at the ear of one of his hostages once during the evening and demanded to talk with a policeman.

McFee said he responded by approaching the back door of the bank as instructed, and Gregory sent a rifle shot over his head.

"He advised me if he truly wanted to he could have killed me, and I believe him," McFee said.

There were no injuries reported although police estimated Gregory fired more than 200 rounds of ammunition from his two rifles.

Gregory walked into the bank at about 6 p.m. with his rifles in plain view and ordered the customers and two employes outside, police spokesman Phillip Caswell said.

He kept seven bank employes, including three women, as hostages, but released them one-by-one as the evening wore on. He traded one of the hostages for a police bullhorn.

When he discovered another bank employe hiding under a counter several hours after the siege began, Gregory allowed him to leave.

At Gregory's request, McFee said, police placed a call to his girlfriend, who apparently convinced the gunman police would not harm him if he surrendered.

Also, police granted Gregory's demand to speak with his mother and a Washington television reporter.

Three Policemen Fired

DETROIT (AP) — Three Detroit police officers were fired and nine others suspended Wednesday for their alleged roles in an outbreak of violence during a May, 1975 police demonstration. The men, who were all cleared of criminal charges in a Detroit Recorder's Court trial, said they will appeal Chief William Hart's action to a police trial board. George Allen, Ronald Jones and Leland Trewyn were fired by Hart. Suspensions for the other nine officers ranged from 30 to 90 days. Jones and the suspended officers will remain on their jobs pending the decision of the trial board, which could overrule the chief. Allen and Trewyn were suspended from working.

Traverse Electric Bill Cheater Gets Probation

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich. (AP) — A 28-year-old Traverse City man has been sentenced to 60 days' probation and one weekend in jail for defrauding an electric company.

Robert Robertson also was sentenced in district court Wednesday to make restitution to the Cherryland Rural Electric Cooperative within 45 days and ordered to pay a $25 fine and $50 in court costs.

Robertson also could serve an extra 10 days in jail if he violates the probation.

Robertson pleaded guilty to the misdemeanor last month. The electric company contended he switched electric meters to cut rates at his mobile home.

The company said Robertson took the meter off a vacant lot in the trailer park and switched the meters back when it was time for the company to come and read the meters.

State law prohibits customers from breaking the seals on their meters in an effort to cut rates.

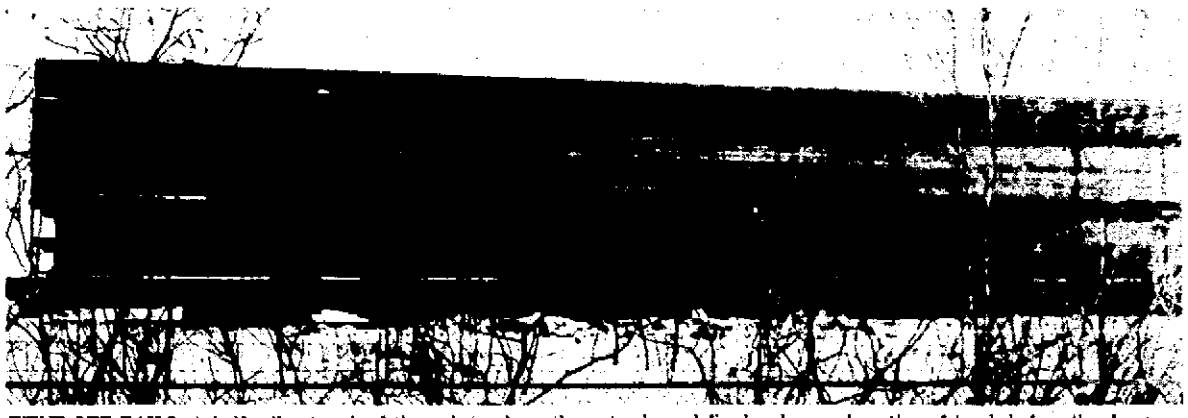
St. Joseph Derailment Third In Last Three Months

REPAIRING TRACKS: Chesapeake & Ohio railroad repair crew labors to fix damage to tracks Wednesday in St. Joseph, where two freight cars derailed early in the day. St. Joseph city police said one of the cars was empty and one was carrying clay. Police were not informed of the cause, and local representatives of the railroad would not answer reporters' questions about the derailment. It was the third derailment within three months in a half-mile stretch of the railroad in St. Joseph. (Staff photos by Harry Smith)



WENT OFF RAILS: A half-mile stretch of through track on the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad in St. Joseph city Wednesday was the scene of the third derailment accident within the last three months. Seen here is one of two cars that went off the rails at 5:35 a.m. Wednesday a short distance north of the railroad bridge over the St. Joseph river. A railroad repair team restored the two cars to the tracks and fixed a damaged section of track before the day was over. Last Nov. 11, one freight car derailed at the Upton drive crossing, and on Dec. 24 seven cars left the rails near the river bridge, with two of the cars taking a spectacular plunge into the St. Joseph river.)

Five Hurt In Crashes

Four people were treated and released at Berrien General hospital Wednesday for apparently minor injuries sustained in a two-car accident at Naomi road and old Pipestone road, Pipestone township, Berrien sheriff's officers reported.

Treated and released were Alberta J. Shane, 32, of 3918 South Pipestone road, Sodus township, driver of one car, and a passenger in her car, Lolita Nick, 11, also of 3918 South Pipestone; and Marla J. Haynes, 24, and her passenger, Phyllis Pierson, 39, both of Berrien Springs. No tickets were issued, Berrien county deputies reported.

Berrien sheriff's officers also reported Thomas J. Jones, 24, of South Bend, was treated and released from Memorial hospital, St. Joseph, after the car he was driving collided with a car driven by Ricky L. Ferguson, 27, also of South Bend.

Deputies said no tickets were issued after the collision, which occurred on US-31 south of Rocky Weed road, Royalton township, Wednesday afternoon.

SECOND CANOPY FALLS: This is tangled debris of 45-foot section of canopy that collapsed on Main street in downtown Watervliet early today. Watervliet Police Lt. John Latsch said canopy on Haffner's Dime store apparently gave way due to weight of some seven to eight inches of snow on it. No one was near it when it fell at about 1:15 a.m., Latsch said. Damage to canopy, and two plate glass windows which shattered as it fell, has been put at about $2,000. On Jan. 19, a 35-foot section of canopy on two other businesses on Main street collapsed, also due to heavy snow on it, police said at time. (Sandy Krickhahn photo)

PBB Control Bill Gains Support

By DONALD WOUTAT
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A detailed plan to reduce the permitted levels of PBB in meat and dairy products and provide $13 million for farmers hurt by the lowered levels is apparently winning bi-partisan support.

Legislation to carry out the plan was announced Wednesday by House Democrats and the idea was endorsed by Gov. William Milliken.

Introduced by state Rep. Francis R. Spaniola, D-Corunna, it would reduce from 300 to 20 parts per billion the level of PBB allowed in meat and dairy products.

Spaniola estimated that after testing, some 19,000 animals might have to be killed. About 80,000 animals would have to be tested under the bill.

Opponents of lowering the tolerance level say Michigan residents already have consumed plenty of PBB-tainted food. They say lowering the standards would cost more than it would be worth in protecting human health.

The measure would cost $22.6 million. That would include $13 million for indemnity payments to farmers, $3.6 million for testing, $2.4 million for transporting and burying the animals, $500,000 for clean-up procedures and an unspecified amount for administration and research.

A spokesman for Milliken said the governor "certainly supports the concept ... provided there's adequate indemnification for farmers."

Spaniola said Agriculture Committee Chairman Paul Porter, D-Quincy, opposes the measure. Democratic leaders said they might route it through the Public Health Committee.

A special governor's advisory panel recommended last year lowering the level to 5 parts per billion. But the state Agriculture Commission refused, saying it would make testing too costly. Milliken proposed a compromise reduction to 100 parts per billion, but the legislation died.

Spaniola predicted lawmakers will be more enthusiastic this year since a survey of more than 1,000 Michigan farm residents turned up evidence that at least a third of them suffered ill effects from PBBtainted food.

PBB, or polybrominated biphenyl, a fire retardant chemical, was accidentally mixed with Michigan livestock feed in 1973. The toxic chemical has since turned up in humans.

The state would reimburse farmers for animals that must be slaughtered because of the bill. The bill sets a reimbursement ceiling of 50 per cent above the average value of each animal.

House Speaker Opposes 'Rainy Day Fund' Plan

By DONALD WOUTAT
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A top priority of Gov. William Milliken appeared in trouble Wednesday when House Speaker Bobby Crim said he opposes putting money in a so-called "rainy day fund" this year.

Crim's opposition came as a surprise. He and other Democratic leaders have strongly supported such a budget stabilization fund. Crim has called it a major project for the new legislative session.

Crim said he still supports the idea, but that this is not the year for it because the economy is still in bad shape.

"It makes little sense to take money we really don't have and put it into a budget stabilization fund at this time," Crim said at a news conference.

Milliken said it would be a "serious mistake" not to fund the proposal this year. A spokesman for the governor said that times will never seem right to put aside money.

"I fear that we may never have a stabilization fund," the governor said.

The fund would be a source of money for the state in bad economic times.

Crim said he thinks lawmakers should set up the mechanism for the fund so money could be earmarked for it when better economic times arrive. But he said he will oppose putting any money in the fund this year.

Milliken proposed diverting $128.8 million to such a fund but then putting $96.6 million of it in another fund to shore up the state's cash flow. That would leave about $32 million in the budget stabilization fund, a savings account that Crim says the state cannot afford.

"How can you and I say this is a good economic year in Michigan with 9.7 per cent unemployed?" Crim asked. "My position may not be a popular one but I'm not going to stand by and see our options cut off for mental health and other human service programs," he said.

Crim's statement was part of a broad attack on Milliken's proposed budget. Crim said the document is based on too many optimistic assumptions about the economy and about what revenue-producing legislation the lawmakers will support.

"Everything has to fall precisely right or we're in a problem," Crim said.

He said Milliken proposes inadequate aid to schools and assumes legislative passage of some $15 million to $25 million in special assessments that "will be difficult to come by." He said he wants more money for mental health and provisions for solar energy research, among other things.

Crim also announced plans to publicize what he predicted will be piece-by-piece changes in the budget recommended by Milliken's office during the year.

"The events of recent years demonstrate clearly that the budget the governor presents to the legislature in February is considerably different from the budget package he asks us to pass in June," Crim said.

He said that last year alone, Milliken added 50 changes to his original budget, adding $95 million to the budget total.

"The legislature sometimes gets a reputation for having been the full cause of these increases, when it's in concurrence with the governor that these increases come about."

Hartford Will File Grant Bid

HARTFORD — The Hartford city council in special session last night approved filing a pre-application to the federal department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) for $400,000 in community development funds.

The council approved filing the pre-application following a second required public hearing. Leslie Cripps and Mrs. Marian Ohmann of Leslie Cripps and Associates, Berrien Springs, presented the proposed program for Hartford.

The pre-application included requests for $120,000 for rehabilitation grants for substandard housing, $120,000 for sanitary sewer assessment grants to low and moderate income people, $87,000 for public works, $34,000 for relocation of families displaced by demolition, $10,000 for demolition of unsafe buildings, $3,000 for planning and management, and $26,000 for overall administration of the program.

Cripps said the council would be notified by April 30, whether the pre-application had been accepted or not. If accepted it would then be asked to make final application.

Designated target area for the program, generally consists of the western half of the city, west of Center street.

Man Sought Here Held In Alabama

NEW BUFFALO — A Michigan City, Ind., man wanted in connection with an alleged meat fork attack in July of 1976 on his estranged wife here, was arrested yesterday in Huntsville, Ala., New Buffalo police said.

Police said Jimmy Ray Johnson, 25, whose last known address was Michigan City, was being held in Alabama on a Berrien county warrant charging him with assault with a deadly weapon. Police said he has apparently refused to waive extradition to Michigan and such proceedings would be initiated against him.

Police said a warrant for Johnson's arrest was issued after his estranged wife, Shirley, 20, was stabbed five times with a large meat fork in her apartment at 1000 West Buffalo street, New Buffalo, July 16. At the time, police reported Mrs. Johnson was baking a birthday cake for her son, Jeremiah, 2.

Roger Lange has been elected the new president of Local 953, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes, for school workers in the Benton Harbor Area Schools, according to an announcement made Wednesday. Lange is day custodian at Fairplain junior high.

Other officers chosen in the local's election were: Chuck Steel, vice president; Joe Howell, secretary-treasurer, and Willie Duckett, recording secretary.

Named as members of the executive board were Frank Allen, Tom Adams and Tom Ward. Picked as trustees were Charles Pierce, Thomas Head and Eddie King.

Departmental representatives on the executive board are: Earlene Roberts, representing food service; Terry Caldwell, custodians; Dan Skinner, maintenance; Effie Razor, bus drivers; Isaha Newsom, security, and George Ervin, head custodians.

Plans are being made, according to the new president, for some union workshops to be held later this year. According to Lange, the State, County and Municipal Employes union is presently one of the fastest growing labor unions in the country, and has close to one million members today.

The next meeting for the local membership is at 10 a.m. Saturday at the Sterne Brunson school, according to Lange.

Man Convicted Of '74 Robbery

A Benton Harbor man was convicted Wednesday in Berrien Circuit court of the armed robbery of a Benton Harbor party store in 1974.

Jurors in Judge Chester J. Byrns' court deliberated about 1 hour and 45 minutes before returning the guilty verdict against Billy H. Wright, 40. After the verdict, Byrns revoked Wright's bond and remanded him to jail to await sentencing of up to life in prison.

Wright went to trial on a charge of armed robbery, with the prosecution alleging he used a 9-millimeter automatic pistol to rob Tom Angelo of an undetermined amount of cash Dec. 7, 1974, at Angelo's party store, then located at 282 Territorial road.

The defense contended Wright did not commit the robbery, that witnesses were mistaken in identifying him as the suspect, and he couldn't have committed the robbery because at the time of the offense he was recuperating from a leg ailment.

The prosecutor's office said the delay in bringing the case to trial was because Wright was arrested in Indiana about a year after the robbery, then fought extradition, and asked for a number of continuances for the date of trial. Wright also is charged with rape and armed robbery in Indiana.

Opposing counsel in the two-day trial were Asst. Prosecutor Pat Murphy and Buchanan Atty. James Jesse.

May Use Ads To Sell $2 Bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — Having failed on its own, the government now is considering paying an advertising agency $300,000 to convince Americans they need the $2 bill.

Officials admit disappointment in the public reception given the $2 bill since it was brought back with considerable fanfare about 10 months ago.

In fact, the Bureau of Engraving and Printing has stopped printing the bills, at least temporarily. Of the approximately 415 million that were printed, about 222 million actually went into circulation.

But that number is not as impressive as it might seem. Millions of the $2 bills apparently were boarded away as souvenirs soon after they were issued last April 13, and have been unused since.

James A. Conlon, director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, said he is encouraged that four million of the $2 bills showed up in circulation in December, the last month for which a count is available.

Conlon said in an interview that he thinks consumers want the $2 bill but just aren't getting a chance to use it because retail merchants aren't distributing it.

"As we see it, citizens are waiting to use the bills, but they are being denied the opportunity to use it," he said. "I'm disappointed ... in the apparent reluctance of cashiers to use the bills."

Conlon said there is no danger yet that the new $2 bills will go the way of the old $2 bills, which were phased out of circulation in 1966 because people weren't using them. "We're firm in our intention," he said.

He said the Bureau of Engraving and Printing and the Federal Reserve Board are proposing a "more positive" public relations campaign than has been tried before to win acceptance for the $2 bill.

If Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal approves, Conlon said, the agencies will seek bids from advertising agencies and others to undertake the campaign, which would cost about $200,000.

Arrest Dissident

MOSCOW (AP) — Police picked up human rights activist Yuri Orlov today after he emerged from a week in hiding and warned that Stalinism may return this year, Andrei Sakharov reported.

Sakharov, the nuclear physicist who is a leader in the Soviet human rights movement, told Western reporters he did not know if Orlov was arrested on a specific charge or was taken in for questioning.

FOR THE BIRDS: Dave Toner, delivery driver for Kreamo Bakery of South Bend, throws bread for birds along his route in St. Joseph township. Kreamo said its drivers are leaving bread to help feed birds during critical winter months and urged residents to provide handouts. An emergency appeal also has been issued by the National Audubon society, asking householders in the winter disaster states from the Rockies to the Atlantic to put food out for birds. Bread, grain, "wild bird seed" mixtures, suet, and chopped raisins and apples are all good. (Staff photo)

Evidence In CTA Crash Disappears, Police Say

CHICAGO (AP) — City officials have revealed that four hand-rolled cigarettes seen in a case belonging to the Chicago Transit Authority motorman involved in Friday's fatal train crash have disappeared.

Eleven persons died and nearly 200 were injured as a result of the crash of two CTA elevated trains during last Friday evening's downtown rush hour.

James O'Grady, chief of criminal investigations for the Police Department, said the cigarettes were found at the scene in a leather shoulder pouch which contained identification indicating it belonged to the motorman, Stephen A. Martin.

Investigators planned to test the cigarettes for marijuana content on Monday, O'Grady said.

The pouch, with Martin's CTA identification card inside, was found by two policemen and two staff members of the Chicago Crime Commission, a civic group. It was sent with other personal belongings picked up at the crash site to the Police Department's Central District locker room.

Police said the purse was opened for a cursory check and an inventory sheet was filled out. The sheet noted that the purse contained miscellaneous identification but made no mention of cigarettes.

Michael Spiotto, first deputy police superintendent, said the purse or pouch was sent to a basement vault at police headquarters late Friday night and was put in a plastic evidence bag and sealed.

Spiotto said he notified Joseph DiLeonardi, police homicide commander, who ordered the purse removed from the police vault on Monday. The seal was intact when the purse was opened on Monday, Spiotto said, but the cigarettes were missing.

The cigarettes apparently disappeared between the scene of the crash and the vault at police headquarters, Spiotto said.

Steven Schiller, the crime commission's executive director, said staff members notified him of the pouch's contents when they heard on Saturday that Martin was the motorman operating the train that collided with a stationary train after rounding a sharp curve.

Schiller said he, in turn, told DiLeonardi about the cigarettes on Monday.

DiLeonardi said Wednesday night that police have not been able to interview the still-hospitalized Martin, and that hospital officials have not said when they would be able to do so.

A spokesman for the National Transportation Safety Board said that results of Martin's blood-alcohol and toxicology tests conducted Friday night were negative.

Martin, in fair condition but still under intensive care, was unavailable for comment.

On Saturday, CTA officials cited "man failure" for the accident that sent four cars plunging to the street. Martin apparently violated CTA rules by proceeding despite a flashing warning signal in his cab, federal investigators said that day.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Four national sponsors and 75 television stations have signed up for the four 90-minute interviews which talk show host David Frost will taper with former President Richard M. Nixon.

And Leo Koch, executive vice president of Syndicast Services, New York syndicator for the four-show series, said he expects that more than 100 stations covering 90 per cent of the national viewing audience will have signed up by May 4, when the first show is to be aired.

SARAH SHAPLEIGH
Leaving Masterpiece

Stevensville Coed Must Leave Painting At MSU

By MARILOU WIT

EAST LANSING — When Sarah Shapleigh graduates from Michigan State university this spring she'll be leaving her masterpiece behind.

"I had to trade my 18-foot mural to a professor for one of his paintings," said Shapleigh, "because there was nowhere I could store it. But I did take slides of it for my portfolio."

Shapleigh's mural, painted in acrylics, is in two dimensions with a moat along the bottom and airplanes hanging from the top.

The mural portrays Girl Scouts at one end and Boy Scouts at the opposite end marching toward each other. As they approach the middle the Girl Scouts turn into chickens and the Boy Scouts turn into pigs. In the center of the mural the chickens and pigs have a battle.

"It's a social criticism on our conditioning," explained Shapleigh.

A studio art major, Shapleigh concentrates her art on expressionistic personal imagery in two dimensional mixed media. She describes her art as "contemporary iconography" using 20th century images and symbols.

"In a lot of my work I use Barbie dolls and Girl Scouts," said Shapleigh. "They are the personification of the female American dream and symbol of sexist socialization."

"I guess I bring feminism into art."

Shapleigh practically lives, eats, and sleeps art. She was one of six studio art majors given a studio at Kresge Art Center on the campus.

"I spend at least 60 hours a week in my studio — I wish I could bring in a bed and live there," Shapleigh said.

Shapleigh also spends many hours improving conditions at the art center. She was chairman of the Faculty Teaching Committee in the Art Department for four terms. They present grievances to the faculty, attempt to change class requirements, and prepare forms for student evaluations of the faculty.

"I was also one of the developers of the student gallery," Shapleigh said. "We converted a lounge into a gallery so that students could show their work all year, not just at the annual spring show."

Shapleigh decided to major in art when she received a four year Michigan State Creative Arts scholarship. She has maintained a grade point average of 3.6.

"I have a painting hanging in the Honors College," said Shapleigh, "but I have been too busy with my art to apply for Honors College membership."

After graduation Shapleigh would like to study at the Chicago Art Institute or the Whitney Museum in Manhattan.

They're Both MSU Students

EDITOR'S NOTE: The subject of this article is Sarah Shapleigh, a graduate of Lakeshore high school and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Shapleigh, 2996 Mansueto, Stevensville. It was written by Marilou Wit of St. Clair Shores, Mich., as part of her course work in reporting in the Michigan State University School of Journalism.

'Good Life' Shown In Divorce Trial

DETROIT (AP) — A divorce trial revealed auto fortune heir Walter Buhl Ford III and his former wife spent $6,000 a year for freshly cut flowers, $5,000 to show first-run movies and $40,000 a year for servants.

The trial ended Wednesday when Wayne County Circuit Judge Charles Kaufman awarded $5.5 million, or roughly 30 per cent of the couple's $18.8 million marital estate, to the 31-year-old Mrs. Ford.

The judge ruled her 33-year-old husband caused the marital split by having a clandestine affair with a cocktail waitress.

Kaufman also gave Mrs. Ford half of the household furnishings from the couple's Grosse Pointe Farms home plus child support payments of about $2,000 a year for each of their four daughters. Their household furnishings are valued at about $2.6 million.

Robert Zeff, Mrs. Ford's attorney, asked for more than twice what she was finally awarded. According to testimony in the eight-day trial, the couple was married when Mrs. Ford was 19 and pregnant with Ford's child.

Testimony focused on the disputed size of the fortune of Ford. He is the great-grandson of auto industry pioneer Henry Ford and employed at Greenfield Village in Dearborn.

On the stand, neither Ford nor Mrs. Ford could say how much they spent a year on clothes. They said they never looked at price tags.

Mrs. Ford later estimated she spent $15,000 a year for clothing. Her husband testified he owned 80 shirts.

Ford's attorney, John Schaefer, said Zeff's proposed $10 million-plus verdict "preposterous" and said it was Ford's "duty to support her (Mrs. Ford), not endow her with a fortune at the expense of her husband."

Zeff said Ford's attorney, Schaefer, "is making this man out as a pauper which is the most ridiculous thing I've ever heard."

Ships Battle Lake Ice

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich. (AP) — Three Coast Guard ships struggled Wednesday to guide two oil tankers to Traverse City through record-thick ice.

Coast Guard officials said the Amoco Wisconsin and the Amoco Illinois were battling ice five to seven feet thick off the Manitou Islands and the ships' speeds were only about one knot.

The Coast Guard said ice that thick, with 1½ feet of snow on top, is unprecedented in northern Lake Michigan.

The cutter Raritan was escorting the tankers and keeping them from becoming frozen in the ice. The Coast Guard also called in the cutter Sundew and summoned the polar icebreaker Westwind from the Straits of Mackinac. But officials said it might take the Westwind as long as a day to reach the tankers.

The Westwind is needed to break a track through the ice fields off Leelanau County.

Both tankers, carrying split loads of gasoline and furnace oil, were traveling to Traverse City from Chicago. An official estimated they carry about 105,000 barrels of fuel between them.

Jobless Benefits Issue Back In State Senate

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Legislation to halt unemployment benefits for people who quit their jobs was introduced again Wednesday by a state senator who faced a rowdy crowd on the issue earlier in the day.

About 50 members of the Unemployment Workers Organizing Committee of Detroit demonstrated at the Capitol at noon. They complained that Sen. Jack Welborn, R-Kalamazoo, sponsor of the bill, doesn't care about the unemployed because he is protecting big business.

Welborn came out of his office to address the crowd, but was shouted down. Finally, he asked to meet with a half dozen members of the group. They refused.

Before leaving, he said his bill would protect those who want to work and ultimately would provide more jobs in Michigan by reducing the financial burden industries now face because of unemployment benefit payments.

One member of the protesting group shouted, "Big business is like a tapeworm: the more you feed it, the more it eats."

"So is socialism," Welborn responded.

Outnumbered in the shouting match, Welborn returned to his office.

Under his bill, benefits would be refused to people who quit their jobs for no reason, who are fired for misconduct or drunkenness, or who are fired because of a criminal conviction.

A similar bill died in the Senate Labor Committee last year.

"As a free country, we do not owe anyone a living," Welborn said after introducing the measure.

He said 147,166 people voluntarily quit their jobs and drew benefits in 1974, adding that the figure jumped to 182,423 in 1975.

Welborn said Michigan, where all unemployment benefits are paid by employers, ranks second in the nation in the amount of payments.

In addition, he said, state employers now owe the federal government more than $571 million they borrowed to pay the benefits. He said his bill would save employers at least $100 million the first year.

The issue of "voluntary quits" was a hot one between Gov. William Milliken and legislative Democrats when benefits were raised in 1975. Both sides have promised to re-examine the issue this year in revising the unemployment compensation system.

Ask Your Dentist

By ALFRED E. SEYLER, D.D.S.

In one of my columns I answered a question about proper home care of the teeth and gums. Several of my fellow dentists have taken me to task about my answer and told me I missed a golden opportunity to really stress prevention of dental diseases.

While I don't think a dental columnist writer can ever present to his readers a personal oral health program, I will agree that a general message about prevention is my responsibility.

Preventive dentistry is not new. Many of the things that popular dental lecturers are exciting their fellow dentists and their patients about have been discussed in textbooks now gathering dust in libraries!

In 1915, G.V. Black, considered one of the outstanding dentists of all time, commented that the treatment of dental decay by fillings, bridgework or other operations had become the principal service of the dentist. He stated that the soft tissues (gums) were neglected until severe disease had developed and there was a danger of loss of teeth because of gingivitis (pyorrhea).

There is nothing mysterious or secret about preventive dentistry. Far from it. It is merely the practical application of our knowledge of the maintenance of dental health, once it has been achieved.

It is not merely plaque control — not just the use of fluorides in water supplies, tooth pastes or application to the teeth. Properly shaped fillings or bridges are must necessary, but the patient must recognize his obligation to help bring about and then maintain a healthy mouth.

At a recent conference of dentists, health educators and research workers, held at the American Dental association in Chicago, some basic conclusions and directives were formulated.

It was agreed that dental plaque — often called film — should be removed from all of the tooth surfaces at least once a day. To do this, a toothbrush and dental floss are necessary and the cooperation of the patient is absolutely necessary to control the day-to-day buildup of dental plaque.

Dental plaque is a sticky, almost colorless coating which forms continuously on the teeth. It leads to tooth decay and gum troubles and really is a mass of microorganismic bacteria.

It cannot be removed by simply brushing the teeth — dental floss must be used in addition to the toothbrush. Your dentist can show you how to use dental floss properly and can advise you whether you should use waxed or unwaxed floss.

For years dentists and hygienists have told their patients "brush up on the lowers, down on the uppers," but our researchers tell us that a better method may be a vibrating motion or a gentle scrubbing back and forth. For most people, a soft multi-tufted brush with round-end bristles should be used.

There are several methods of checking on whether you're doing a good job of brushing your teeth, ranging from tablets or liquids containing vegetable or chemical dyes, to a small electric ultra-violet light and mirror, called a Plak-Lite.

As far as children below 9 or 10 are concerned — don't take it for granted they will do a good job of flossing — or even brushing for that matter.

Use the disclosing solutions or light to keep them interested in doing their job well, and from time to time take over yourself to be sure.

Washington Bureaucrats Get Carter Pep Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is visiting Cabinet departments one by one, encouraging bureaucrats in hallways, offices, cafeterias and auditoriums to be imaginative, unafraid of change and more responsive to the people.

Carter set aside time today to walk to the Treasury, next door to the White House, to meet in the Cash Room with employes. Lined with tellers' cages until it was closed last summer, the Cash Room was the Federal Reserve System's last remaining bank that cashed checks.

Now an empty room with marble walls, the Cash Room once turned checks into greenbacks and silver for government workers and others. It became known as a place where the poor with no bank accounts of their own could cash their welfare checks.

Like other banks of its kind across the country, it was shut down as uneconomical.

The President arranged to ride from the Treasury to the Department of Housing and Urban Development, where hundreds of workers were invited to the cafeteria to hear him. He also planned to visit several offices in the building.

White House Press Secretary Jody Powell said Carter will tour every Cabinet department "to see the people and to express ... his direct concerns." Powell said there is no significance to the order of the President's visits.

Carter went to the Labor Department on Wednesday. "Be aggressive, dynamic and imaginative," he told its employes. "I don't want any of you to be afraid of change.... I want an aggressive, constant search for a better way to deliver services."

With Cabinet secretary Jack Watson in tow, the President ventured first into the crannies of the department, entering with Secret Service agents through the basement, taking an elevator to the second floor and greeting workers in the hallways.

He toured offices in the Policy Evaluation and Research Division, then stepped into the main hallway. Bureaucrats cheered, whistled and shouted. One man lifted a woman so she could see. Men and women pulled and shoved to grab Carter's hand or touch his sleeve.

Several women touched the hands of others who touched the President. "Jimmy, Jimmy...," they shouted. "Mr. President, Mr. President." His bodyguards cleared a path to the department's marble lobby, where Carter stepped onto a small stage.

"I'm glad to be here with you," he told about 1,000 workers, some of whom survey the unemployed and administer programs to help them. "I was unemployed until three weeks ago," Carter said. "But now I've got a good job." The group cheered and applauded.

Carter shed his blue suitcoat. Labor Secretary Ray Marshall took it, but continued to wear his own. Television lights sent temperatures climbing. Perspiration ran from the President's forehead.

He said he has chosen a woman to head the Occupational Safety and Health Administration. Sources say she is Eula Bingham, a University of Cincinnati professor of environmental sciences. Carter said the announcement will be made soon.

The President said there will be "no backing down on the basic concept" of OSHA, but he called for "a sensible approach ... (with a) minimum of regulations and a maximum of common sense."

Carter To Ease Panama Terms?

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's special envoys are preparing to leave for Panama amid reports that the Carter administration is ready to ease U.S. terms for a new Canal Treaty.

Major elements of Carter's projected compromise remain secret, but U.S. officials say they expect the President, represented in the talks by Washington lawyer Sol M. Linowitz, to move nearer Panamanian demands on several key issues.

As U.S. negotiators prepared to leave Sunday for Panama, Panamanian Foreign Minister Aquilino Boyd resigned Wednesday in a dispute with strongman Gen. Omar Torrijos Herrera over the canal talks.

Torrijos named as Boyd's replacement, Nicolas Gonzalez Revilla, Panama's current ambassador to the United States.

U.S. sources say the canal talks issues on which U.S. movement is expected relate to the duration of the new treaty, circumstances in which the United States can exercise primary rights to defend the canal, size of the 553-square mile Canal Zone, arrangements that would give Panama a bigger share of Canal tolls and other revenue and ways to expand the waterway so it can handle big new ships.

Carter this week named Linowitz conegotiator along with Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker, who had for years been in sole charge of the slowmoving negotiations.

With Linowitz' appointment, Carter signaled Panama that he intends a personal role in the talks. As if to underline the resolve to hustle the negotiations toward a settlement, Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, before taking office, told Costa Rican Foreign Minister Gonzalo Facio a new pact could be achieved by April or May.

Meanwhile Torrijos, authoritarian head of the Panamanian government, has sent his own signals back to the White House, defining his minimum demands in advance of the talks, which begin Feb. 20.

The Panamanian embassy said Torrijos' demands are for total and final U.S. withdrawal by Dec. 31, 1999; that thereafter the security and neutrality of the waterway should be vested in the United Nations to guarantee it will remain free and open to all countries.

Michigan Senators Praise BH Program

Michigan's two U.S. senators have sent telegrams to Benton Harbor Mayor Joel Patterson commending the city for hosting the "Community Celebration" Sunday.

"One of the greatest domestic challenges facing our nation today is to improve the quality of life in our towns and cities," Sen. Robert Griffin said in the telegram. "If public officials and private citizens take a more active role and work together actively and cooperatively, I know we can achieve that goal."

"At a time when there is so much pessimism as regards the future of our cities, the spirit and determination exemplified by Benton Harbor's Community Celebration have particular meaning," Sen. Donald Riegle said. "If the committment and energy that have generated this creative initiative can be translated into a determined effort at community problem solving, there is no obstacle that cannot be overcome."

Some 225 people gathered at Benton Harbor high school student commons Sunday for a program that featured a buffet dinner, musical entertainment, and addresses by Benton Harbor sports and business representatives and a leader of a Muskegon citizens group.

Bus Crash Kills 20

MEXICO CITY (AP) — An overloaded passenger bus fell about 300 feet down an embankment several miles outside Taxco Wednesday night, killing 20 persons and injuring 42, police reported.

"The survivers are all in very critical condition," a police spokesman said. "Most are still unconscious and none are in any shape to talk."

He said no one escaped unhurt.

Authorities said the accident occurred on a bad curve on the winding road to the village in the Sierra Madre mountains 125 miles south of Mexico City.

BULLARD AT WORK: State Rep. Perry Bullard, D-Ann Arbor, tries to convince Rep. Ruth McNamee, R-Birmingham, that she should back one of his bills. Bullard is gaining respect among his colleagues now that he has put aside his earlier image of pot-smoking and donned robes of establishment, with success. (AP Wirephoto)

Rep. Bullard Gains New Respectability

By DONALD WOUTAT
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Like marijuana, Perry Bullard shocks fewer and fewer people these days.

The Ann Arbor lawmaker admits he's mellowed a bit since 1972 when, freshly elected to the state House of Representatives, he publicly smoked the nasty weed at a "hash bash" to protest marijuana laws.

To raise campaign money, he once showed the X-rated movie "Deep Throat."

Since then, his once-skeptical colleagues have watched the 34-year-old Democrat twist arms with the best of them and compile what even the opposition admits is a solid record.

"He has cleaned up his act in more ways than one," says Republican House Leader Dennis Cawthorne of Muskegon, citing both Bullard's three-piece suits and political savvy.

Bullard saw no fewer than a dozen of his bills signed into law in 1975-76. While sheer numbers often don't mean much, Bullard's tally sheet includes such major successes as an open-records law, a future ban on aerosol sprays and a tenants' rights bill.

"It's a good record by whatever criterion of evaluation you want to use," says veteran Rep. William Ryan, D-Detroit.

Ryan gives Bullard high marks for learning the art of politics, compromise and getting along with all manner of legislators — even Republicans.

And Bullard says he's developed respect for Michigan lawmakers, whom he calls "remarkably honest."

Now he thinks about running for the state Senate or even Congress. But he says there's no timetable and admits his left-wing ideas might have limited currency outside the friendly confines of Ann Arbor.

Says Ryan, "He's a bright young Democratic star if you're talking about running for Congress from that (2nd) district. But if you're talking about running for governor...."

Despite Bullard's early reputation as a pot-smoking, anti-war radical, his background is impeccably establishment: Harvard class of '64, a Navy officer who flew reconnaissance flights over North Vietnam, University of Michigan Law School.

On his office wall are a framed quotation from civil libertarian Thomas Paine — and a citation from a Navy admiral for meritorious service.

There's nothing contradictory about all this if one understands what democracy is all about, in Bullard's view. He is convinced that the greatest threat to democracy is government "sabotage" of ideas and privacy.

Last year, he used the chairmanship of the House Civil Rights Committee to hold hearings into the State Police "red squad" surveillance of private citizens. Now he's pushing for a probe of illegal FBI activities in Michigan in the 1960s.

He is slightly uncomfortable with talk about a "new Perry Bullard." He says his goals are the same, regardless of his tactics and dress.

"A lot of things I said scared people," he says. "They were afraid they had an irrational free electron on their hands. I've consciously tried to show my colleagues I am a rational representative tied in with the concerns of the people of Ann Arbor."

Victim Of Auto Collision Dies

SOUTH HAVEN — An elderly Bangor man injured in a two-car crash near here Jan. 25, died yesterday afternoon at Borgess hospital in Kalamazoo, according to state police at South Haven. Troopers said, however, that the death of Walter Ashbrook, 73, route 2, Bangor, will not be counted as a traffic death until results of an autopsy are known.

Police said Ashbrook suffered head injuries when a car driven by his son Robert, and another auto driven by Mrs. Gerald (Sandra) Swisher, 31, rural Bangor, collided about 11:05 a.m. on M-43, near CR-380, some three miles southeast of South Haven. Ashbrook was the most seriously injured of the nine people who received medical treatment following the head-on accident, police said.

House Gets Tax Bill

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — What one lawmaker called a "bureaucratic coup de etat" by the state Treasury Department would be corrected under a measure nearing final passage in the legislature. Treasury officials changed the definition of household income on 1976 tax forms, thereby shortchanging some taxpayers on their property tax credits. A Senate-passed measure to clear up the problem was amended slightly and sent to the House floor Wednesday. It says that insurance payments — whether from an employer or the premium-holder himself — cannot be defined as part of household income. Treasury included insurance payments as part of income on the tax forms. The effect was to raise income and entitle homeowners to less of a property tax credit.

Repair Law Challenged

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Michigan attorney general has been asked to rule on the constitutionality of a law exempting certain home repairs and upkeep from increases in property tax assessments. House Republican Leader Dennis Cawthorne of Muskegon asked Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley if the legislature has the right to direct assessors to disregard certain repairs in determining true cash value. Property assessments are required to reflect 50 per cent of cash value. Cawthorne has accused the state Tax Commission of subverting the law by directing assessors to disregard it when placing values on residential property. Tax Commission officials say they are bound to follow the constitutional requirement that property of equal value be assessed the same.

State CB Traffic Heavy

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan State Police reported more than 8,000 CB radio contacts in the first seven months they have monitored citizen band radio traffic. The State Police, which monitors CB traffic on channels 9 and 19 from mobile and base stations across the state, said the contacts included 2,681 reported traffic violations and 5,992 reports of dangerous conditions or requests for help. The State Police began monitoring CB conversations last June. They said contacts through December totaled 8,061. They also announced a change Wednesday in the State Police call sign from KZL 3698 to KMI 0911.

Police Dismissal Upheld

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — The dismissal of a Grand Rapids policeman who shot and wounded a fleeing motorcyclist has been upheld by the city's Civil Service Board. The board voted 3-1 to approve dismissal of Ronnie F. Stevens, 34, a patrolman for eight years. Stevens was suspended and then fired after shooting the motorcyclist during a chase on U.S. 131 last Aug. 27. Stevens contended he shot a fleeing felon but his superiors disagreed. After Tuesday's decision, Stevens said, "I'm totally and utterly disappointed."

Nuclear Dump Ban Asked

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A bill to prohibit the dumping of nuclear waste in Michigan salt beds has been introduced in the state Senate. Its sponsor, state Sen. Gary Corbin, said legislative approval of the bill will serve notice to the federal government that Michigan refuses to consent to the storing or dumping of radioactive materials anywhere in the state. Corbin, a Clio Democrat, echoed beliefs of many lawmakers who say questions about the possible health hazards of the nuclear wastes have not been adequately answered. Michigan is one of 36 states under study as a potential dumping ground for nuclear waste. The Federal Energy Research Development Administration is conducting the study.

ITT Names Hamilton President

NEW YORK (AP) — Lyman C. Hamilton, heir-apparent to hard-driving Harold S. Geneen as head of ITT, says he started his career 30 years ago working for the government at a yearly salary of $2,640 and "my mind intent on being a good bureaucrat."

Now, at age 50, the onetime U.S. Bureau of the Budget employe has been named No. 2 man and chief of operations at International Telephone & Telegraph Corp., the world's largest manufacturer of telecommunications equipment.

The company said the move puts Hamilton in line to succeed Geneen, the $776,085-a-year chief executive who has dominated ITT for years.

Hamilton's promotion from vice president to president and chief operating officer — announced Wednesday — is effective March 1. On Dec. 31, he is expected to succeed Geneen, 67, as chief executive, the company said.

Immunity Is Offered To Gunman

mortgage company that lent Kiritsis $130,000 to buy 17 acres of land on which he planned to build a shopping center. Kiritsis contends he was swindled.

On Tuesday, Kiritsis demanded and was granted release from the loan and a public apology from Hall's Meridian Mortgage Co. He also demanded unspecified monetary damages stemming from the mortgage dispute and immunity from any damages arising from his actions after abducting Hall.

"I don't like it," Martz said of the immunity offer, "but that's beside the point. What are you going to do about it?"

Prosecutor James A. Kelley, discounting fears that immunity would set a dangerous precedent, said he would agree to free Kiritsis "if it is necessary to save a life and prevent anyone from being injured.

After Kiritsis seized Hall, the father of four, from his downtown office, he tied a sawed-off shotgun to Hall's neck and marched his hostage along downtown streets to the Indiana statehouse, then commandeered a police car and drove about 7½ miles to the Crestwood Village apartment.

Kiritsis contended that the mortgage firm tried to steer retail outlets away from his proposed shopping center so the loan would be defaulted.

On Wednesday, Hall told police from the apartment that Kiritsis was treating him well.

"I've got food. I've got water and I'm being treated well," he told authorities over the telephone in the first official contact with them since the ordeal began.

Delinquent Father Finds Judge Wasn't Bluffing

BY SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

A Decatur man may have thought a Berrien Circuit judge was bluffing when the man was ordered to sign a wage assignment for child support. He called the "bluff," wound up in jail, and then signed the wage assignment to get out of jail.

Edward Pastrick, chief investigator for the Berrien friend of the court's office, reported Judge William S. White held Allen Jones, of 201 Wheeler street, in contempt of court and placed him on two years' probation for $807.50 arrears for three children on ADC. The judge also ordered Jones to sign a wage assignment of $30 weekly support and $2 a week on the arrearage. But later outside of court, Pastrick said Jones refused to sign the wage assignment, so Jones went before White again and got 90 days in jail.

Pastrick said that after Jones spent some time in jail, he signed the assignment and was released. But White warned that if two support payments are missed, another 90-day jail term will be imposed.

White held five other fathers in contempt of court for arrearages and placed each on two years probation, Pastrick reported. And another six delinquent fathers were found in contempt by Judge Chester J. Byrns.

Steve Pulliam, of 379 Walnut avenue, Benton township, paid $200 towards an arrearage to get out of a four-month jail sentence he received for $3,660 arrears for two children on ADC. Pastrick said Pulliam had not made a support payment since September, 1974.

Herbert Williams, of 841 Thresher, Benton Harbor, paid $500 on his arrearage of $2,971 for three children formerly on ADC to have a 30-day jail sentence cancelled. Pastrick said the children in Williams' case have since come of age, and Williams was told to pay $26 weekly on the arrearage.

Vaughn Stevens, of 512 Walnut, Benton township, was told to find employment in 30 days or spend 90 days behind bars for $2,490 arrears for one child on ADC. His last support payment was in April, 1975, Pastrick said.

Marshall Johnson, of Buchanan, was ordered to sign a wage assignment of $18 weekly support and $22 on the arrearage of $5,779 for three children on ADC, and warned a four-month jail sentence would be imposed if three payments are missed.

Glen Jarman, of Niles, was told to pay $10 per week on an arrearage of $2,772 for one child formerly on ADC. No support was ordered because the child has come of age, Pastrick noted.

In cases before Judge Byrns, Pastrick reported each father was held in contempt and placed on two years probation.

Larry D. Johnson, of South Bend, paid $1,000 to avoid a 30-day jail sentence for $2,640 arrears for three children on ADC, and was ordered to sign a wage assignment of $30 weekly support and $10 on the arrears. Byrns said if any payments are missed Johnson will get one weekend in jail for each payment missed.

Calvin Chapman, of Niles, was sentenced to three weekends in jail for $1,683 arrears for one child on ADC, and got the same warning about missing payments as Johnson. Chapman was also told to pay $18 weekly support and $10 on the arrearage.

Larry Grissom, of Grand Haven, was ordered to sign a wage assignment of $25 weekly support and $20 on an arrearage of $2,701 for one child on ADC.

Ronald Merritt, of Dayton, paid $75 towards an arrearage of $876 for one child on ADC, and was told to pay $8 weekly support and $12 weekly on the arrears.

Robert Kizer, of 1007 Bass, Benton Harbor, was ordered to sign a wage assignment of $18 weekly support and $2 weekly on an arrearage of $3,967 for three children on ADC.

Ray Williamson, of 1609 Reeder street, Benton township, was ordered to pay the entire arrearage of $225 for one child formerly on ADC by Feb. 14 or serve 10 days in jail. Support is no longer paid because the child has turned 18, Pastrick said.

Car Ferry Battered In Wild 1923 Storm

By GEORGE VARGO

The recent cold weather recalls the bitter storm that lashed Lake Michigan in February of 1923, forcing ships back to their ports and sinking one vessel.

The wrecked ship was the Ann Arbor car ferry No. 4, which was slammed against the pier at Frankfort, Mich., on Valentine's Day.

When she left Frankfort on Feb. 13 at 8:15 p.m., the wind was easterly with light snow falling. Her course was set for Kewaunee, Wisc, a routine run of about five hours across Lake Michigan.

The bill of lading called for 19 cars of cargo — 17 cars of coal, one of autos, and one of salt. Then about 9:30 p.m. the crew felt a sort of pressure on their ear drums and their voices seemed to echo inside their heads. The wind at 9:30, from west-northwest. It grew colder and colder and white caps began to rise quickly.

Coming off watch some of the crew helped themselves to coffee and sandwiches and then went to bed...but not for long. Soon the ferry was being tossed like a toy. The wind was a howling gale with 80-mile an hour gusts that whipped the lake in a fury. Soon the waves were 30 feet high, with the mercury plunging to 20 below zero. The plight of crew, ship and cargo became very serious as the cars between decks soon broke loose from the rails.

Some of the cars started running up and down the deck with the rise and fall of the hull. One car of autos went out the stern into the open sea, taking the protection of the old wooden sea gate along. Two coal cars went halfway over the stern and hung there. Much to the surprise of everyone, they were still there in the spring.

Captain Frederickson and his crew dumped the contents of some coal cars on deck aft, which prevented any more cargo from going overboard, which would cause a list and in such a sea soon roll her over.

Everyone was busy as the ship rolled in those furious seas. Chains and jacks were braced to the rails and cars as the crew made their way in the hull. At 1:00 a.m. seas became so big and the wind so strong that the ship could not keep her proud bow facing it any longer.

So rolling her rails under and shipping cold grey water her entire length, she came around, loosening everything solid aboard her, including the smokestack, which was soon fastened with gear from below the car deck.

While coming around she lay broadside in this big sea for at least 20 minutes before she put the sea behind her and headed for home. All anyone could do was to hang on with a prayer and watch her smash to pieces, tearing all her side center stanchions loose, causing her upper deck to rise and fall with the sea. After she came around things went along much better, but the big water that often came aboard her open stern was slowly but surely gaining on her pumps. It was only a matter of time for the crew.

The Old Man stuck his face and pipe inside the door and said, "Boys, I have taken you to sea for a good many years, always bringing you safely home, and will do it this time only if we all stick together and keep up the work."

About 5 a.m. an SOS was sent out, and the crew was informed they must be near Frankfort as the radio signal was strong.

In the pilothouse, the Old Man with his pipe going strong said, "We won't change her course" and to the wheelsman, "Steady as you go." Being so cold, it was impossible to see through the steaming water.

On Valentine's Day, Feb. 14, at 7 a.m. just after daylight, they heard the welcome sound of the foghorn and at the same time saw the south pier dead ahead with its beaming light.

The Old Man ordered the wheel "Hard left" in an effort to swing her clear of the pier and into the harbor entrance. But since she was almost full of water and carrying the heaviest portion of her cargo aft, she was way down in the stern.

Her draft was about 18 feet instead of the usual 13 feet, and when about half length away from the pier she dropped down between two big seas and fetched up aft. This tore her complete wheel and shaft off on the starboard side and also broke her rudder stock. It was then that the merciless seas of cold grey water rolled in her open stern, filling her completely with water and ice just as the crew climbed out of her hold.

She swung to the northward, broadside across the pier. Tired, hungry and half frozen as everyone was, it was just an act of God that kept some of the crew from falling in, which would have meant instant death. The pier was covered with ice as they tried to crawl on hands and knees.

There were many people to greet them as they stepped on shore, a curious but downtrodden crew including a Hindu who worked in the galley and had at least three bed sheets and two blankets wrapped around his big frame. The rest of the crew had gunny sacks to keep warm as they began to scatter. Some of them went to town to refresh with some spirits and others to the farm where they stayed the rest of the season. The Hindu was last seen with a map in one hand and suitcase in the other heading for his homeland.

The ship settled down and rested till spring, when they salvaged her. She was raised by the Reid Wrecking Co. of Port Huron, taken to the Manitowac shipyard and on April 5, 1925, she was back in service. She kept on for many years — one of many vessels that were snatched from the deep waters of Lake Michigan.

She had one previous mishap on May 29, 1909 when she rolled over in the slip at Manistique. This was caused by too much weight placed on one side while loading a heavy cargo of iron ore. As she slowly listed on her side, the water coming in the neglected open portholes between decks was discovered much too late.

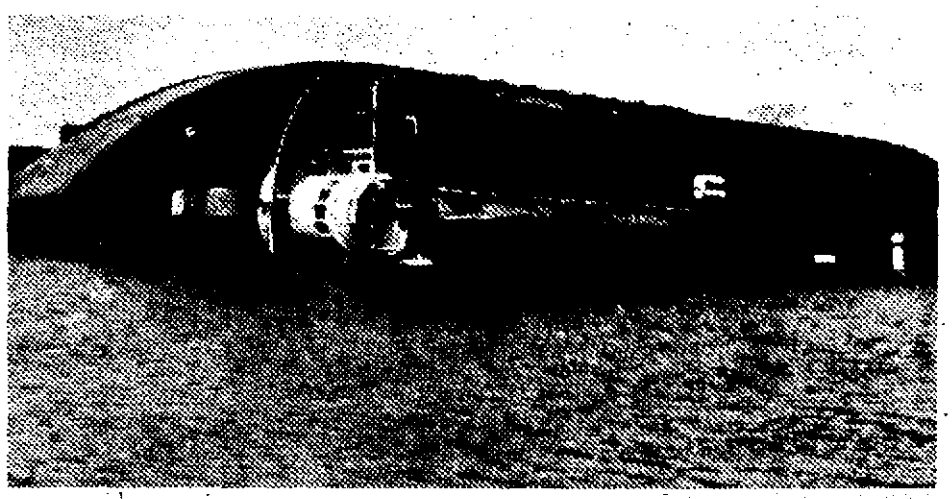
The crew had sufficient time to gather some of their belongings and disembark; but the maid who was in her bunk asleep awoke to find herself sitting on deck, which was then at an angle that did badly inconvenience her hurried dressing.

The ferry was righted a month later. In 1937 the State of Michigan purchased her to carry passengers across the Straits of Mackinac.

Her name was changed to the City of Cheboygan and later she was sold to Captain Anderson and used as a potato boat and docked in the Benton Harbor canal loaded with potatoes. She was built in 1906 at Cleveland, Ohio. She was 259 feet long, 52 feet of beam and of 1,584 gross tons.

Another Vargo Saga

George Vargo, 1499 Jennings avenue, Benton township, is a retired sailor and historian of shipping on the Great Lakes. In this article he recalls the storm that wrecked a Lake Michigan railroad car ferry on Valentine's Day 1923.



ON HER SIDE: The Ann Arbor car ferry No. 4, which was wrecked during Lake Michigan storm on Valentine's Day, 1923, is shown lying on her side at Manistique, Mich., during earlier mishap in 1909. The ship was being loaded with iron ore, but took in water through open portholes and capsized.

House Mavericks Back Milliken Plan

By DONALD WOUTAT
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Young Democrats broke ranks Wednesday and handed Gov. William Milliken a victory on his hotly-debated plan to give Michigan State Police authority over trucking violations.

A Democratic-backed resolution to kill the plan failed by four votes in the state House. Eight Democrats, including three freshmen, voted with Republican forces.

The Democratic leadership called the governor's plan, made in an executive order, an "end run" to skirt lawmakers. The legislature in the past has refused to okay such a change in trucking enforcement.

The Teamsters Union strongly opposed the idea, and Republicans claimed the union was afraid police would be tougher on truckers than is the state Commerce Department.

Milliken wants to transfer 81 weighmasters from the Public Service Commission, which is part of the Commerce Department. They would be transferred to State Police. They would remain a separate unit within the police agency.

The plan is backed by police and commerce, who say enforcing trucking violations has become a dangerous job. Among other things, the executive branch says the weighmasters should carry guns.

The House voted 52-46 to approve a resolution by state Rep. Russell Hellman, D-Dollar Bay, four short of the votes needed for passage. Hellman indicated he will try again to get it passed.

The resolution would also need Senate approval and must be passed by March 13 to block the governor's plan.

Though House Speaker Bobby Crim said the issue centered around Milliken pre-empting legislative authority, Hellman called the transfer the first step toward a police state. Majority Floor Leader Joseph Forbes of Oak Park said State Police eventually want exclusive jurisdiction over everything from liquor violations to welfare fraud.

Republicans called it a sensible transfer of manpower and said the Teamsters have "very suspect motivations."

"They might be sending a message that the State Police police need the Teamsters to do what the police want to do," said Republican Floor Leader William Bryant Jr. of Grosse Pointe Farms.

Commerce boss Richard Helmbrecht warned that failure to okay the transfer "could increase potential for tragic shooting incidents" and said his department should not have anything to do with what has become a law enforcement job.

About 40 of the motor carrier officers filed a grievance last year when Commerce forbade them from carrying weapons because of the potential for shootings by untrained employes.

Among the documents used to persuade lawmakers was a subsequent study that concluded the weighmasters were in fact peace officers. The men last week began police firearm training.

Under the plan, the transferred officers would continue to be paid by motor carrier license fees and the highway transportaiton fund. Democrats said transferring the men to police would lead eventually to diverting highway money to State Police.

SEN. GRIFFIN GOT $1,000

Reveal Illegal Donations

WASHINGTON (AP) — American Airlines has disclosed it gave illegal campaign contributions to nine present or former Michigan politicans from 1971 through 1973.

The biggest illegal contribution from American to a Michigan politician went to Sen. Robert Griffin, the company said Wednesday. Griffin received $1,000 from American.

The company claimed it illegally funneled about $40,000 to 71 members of Congress or other politicians between 1971 and 1973.

Former representative Ed Edmondson of Oklahoma, who received $1,100, was the only other present or former congressman to receive more than Griffin.

Former President Gerald Ford was listed as having received a $100 contribution while he was a member of the U.S. House of Representatives.

American revealed the payments to the Securities and Exchange Commission as part of a settlement for not telling its stockholders of political activities from 1964 through 1973.

Griffin said he had no knowledge of receiving any contribution from the airline.

"I am confident that no one associated with my campaigns knowingly accepted any corporate funds, directly or indirectly," Griffin said.

American listed more politicians in Michigan receiving the illegal campaign money than in any other state. Eight of the nine are Republicans.

The airline also claimed it picked up a $1,300 tab at the Hotel Fountainbleu for the Michigan delegation to the Republican National Convention in 1972. It also said it paid $150 for tickets to a reception for Michigan Gov. William Milliken.

Rep. John D. Dingell, the only Democrat named, was given a $200 contribution, the airline said.

The remaining Michigan Republicans on the list, and their contributions, are: former Rep. James Harvey, $350; former Rep. Jack McDonald, $50; Rep. Elford A. Cederberg, former Rep. Charles Chamberlain and Rep. William S. Broomfield, a shared contribution of $100, and former Rep. Marvin L. Esch, $100.

American Airlines pleaded guilty in 1973 to charges of contributing $55,000 to former President Nixon's re-election campaign, and was fined $5,000.

About two years later, the Civil Aeronautics Board fined the company $150,000.

Construction on $3.1 million building was mostly finished prior to school this fall, but final details completed only earlier this month. Money for construction came from $4.1 million bond issue approved by voters in 1974. School is situated behind high school off Arlington road. Two schools are connected by new gymnasium. Lion Coach Gets Three-Year Pact

No Big Trades--Hudspeth

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Coach Tommy Hudspeth doesn't want to get rid of quarterback Greg Landry or most anyone else on the Detroit Lions, but he's ready to broom some assistants.

"The primary thing right now is to get a staff as soon as I can," Hudspeth sid Wednesday, after declaring he foresees no major trades.

Hudspeth had just shed his "interim" head coach designation by being named permanent coach of the Lions, agreeing to a three-year contract. Terms were not disclosed.

William Clay Ford, owner of the National Football League club, admitted Hudspeth was his second choice after Coach Chuck Knox of the Los Angeles Rams, but Hudspeth didn't seem to mind.

"I had only one other man in mind," Ford said in a printed statement. "And that man was Tommy Hudspeth."

Ford's negotiations with Rams owner Carroll Rosenbloom for the rights to talk with Knox failed last week.

"As far as I'm concerned that was an old chapter," Hudspeth said. "Now I'm the coach and this is a new chapter.

"There are only 28 men in those chairs," he said, referring to head coaching jobs. "I don't think it's a comedown for me."

Hudspeth, 45, was named interim coach after the fourth game last season when Rick Forzano resigned.

Hudspeth, player personnel director, would not get specific on his plans for the team. But, when asked if he expected any major trades, he said: "No. I do not."

There were reports after last season that Ford was disenchanted with Landry and wanted to trade him. Hudspeth quashed those.

"I came in with Landry as quarterback and as far as I'm concerned he'll be the starting quarterback when training camp opens," Hudspeth said.

"I had talks with him (Ford) and I never did read into it that Mr. Ford wanted to trade Greg Landry," he added later. "We never discussed trading Greg Landry."

Hudspeth said nothing much needed to be changed.

"I have a couple of concerns, but not too many," he said, "because I believe we have a fine football team."

Hudspeth said he was going to reduce the coaching staff. There were nine assistants. Four have already taken other jobs.

"I'm leaning to three offensive coaches, three defensive coaches, a special teams coach and an assistant special teams coach," he said.

"I want a staff that's good on fundamentals. I plan on talking to all the coaches. I plan to retain some of them, but I won't keep everyone.

I will not just talk to one person and say he's the man," he said. "I'll interview two or three for each position."

He said he had no college coaches under consideration for assistants jobs.

"Discipline and "fundamentals" were two words Hudspeth used over and over to describe his coaching philosphy.

"We're going to be demanding, but it's not like we're going to bloody everybody's nose, or something," he said.

"We're going to have real good, fundamental training from the word go."

Mann Gains Revenge By Blasting Benton Harbor

GARY, Ind. — Gary Mann brought Benton Harbor back down to earth here Wednesday night.

Boy, did they ever. Mann gained revenge for last year's upset loss, blasting the Tigers 85-52.

The victory was the 13th in 15 games for Mann, while Benton Harbor fell to 8-7. It was the worst Tiger defeat since Benton Harbor lost 102-69 to Muskegon Heights in 1973.

Mann, which had a perfect regular season spoiled by the Tigers last year, were ready Wednesday. Benton Harbor posted a 67-54 win at the Colfax Gym, but were never in Wednesday's game.

"They were ready," Tiger coach Earl McKee said. "They had been waiting since last year. They beat us in every facet of the game. They beat us on the break. They beat us when we set up. They beat us when we pressed.

I guess the big difference was that they were ready to play and we weren't."

All-State candidate John Dixon paced Mann with 28 points, but three other Gary players hit for double figures.

Steve McNutt and Ronald Page both tallied 11 to top the Tigers. Keith Taylor, Benton Harbor's second best scorer with a 13.8 average going into the game, was limited to just two.

"I didn't see anything positive," McKee said. "We didn't really go out there and turn it on. I don't think we were mentally ready to go. We didn't get any of our offenses or defenses on track. Plus, they beat us down the floor on the break."

"They moved the ball all of the time. Everytime we got them to slow up, they would hit the jumper. We just never got on track. They ran the fast break well, got it out and to the middle."

The game was over for all practical purposes in the first six minutes. Mann jumped out to a quick 20-5 lead and was never really threatened after that. Gary led 23-7 at the end of the first quarter, but Benton Harbor closed to within 10 at 30-20 with 4:24 left in the first half.

But another Mann spurt broke the game open. The hosts went on a 17-2 tear throughout the remainder of the half and held a commanding 47-22 halftime margin.

"When we cut the lead to 10," we had a chance to get back in the ballgame," McKee said. "But we tried to rally with the long shots. And everytime we missed they turned the misses into fast breaks."

Substituting freely throughout the second half, Mann led 69-36 after three quarters.

For the game, Mann blistered the nets on 37 of 68 for 54 per cent. Benton Harbor found the mark on just 21 of 68 for 31. per cent.

Mann held a 52-36 board edge. Taylor, Derrick Joseph and McNutt each grabbed five caroms for the Tigers.

Benton Harbor made 20 turnovers, which pleased McKee somewhat.

The Tigers did win the junior varsity preliminary 62-57 in overtime. Michael Gillspie tossed in 20, James Dortch 17 and Andrew Hurst 15 for Benton Harbor, now 13-2.

Contenders Take To Road

Wolverines Take On Indiana Sunday

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Purdue and Minnesota are faced with the task of winning their next two games on the road if they hope to remain in serious contention for the Big Ten title. But if they do win twice on the road, they can exert a bit of pressure on leagueleading Michigan.

Michigan, ranked fifth nationally, is on top of the league with an 11-1 record by virtue of its 86-80 victory at Minnesota last Monday night. Purdue has an 8-2 record and Minnesota is 7-2.

Purdue plays at Wisconsin tonight and at Northwestern Saturday while Minnesota is at Ohio State and at Iowa the same two dates.

Michigan does not play again until Sunday when the Wolverines invade Indiana to take on the rapidly improving Hoosiers in a nationally televised game starting at 1:30 p.m.

Therefore, the Wolverines can sit back and observe the results of the Purdue and Minnesota games and if both contenders win twice, they can sit back Sunday and pull for Indiana to beat Michigan, an event that could possibly throw the race into a virtual three-way tie.

Aside from being in first place, Michigan also has a mental advantage in the race. Although Michigan's only loss was at the hands of Northwestern, the Wolverines have scored victories over Purdue, Minnesota and Indiana.

"It seems like we play very well against the contenders," said Michigan Coach Johnny Orr.

"I've said it before and I'll say it again," said Michigan star Rickey Green, following last Monday night's triumph at Minnesota. "I think this team is as good as last year's, even better. We've been to the playoffs and we know what the pressure is. All we have to do is excel."

If Purdue and Minnesota both win their games tonight and Saturday, this will put added pressure on Michigan at Indiana Sunday afternoon. Michigan defeated Indiana 89-84 at Ann Arbor.

Purdue's losses have come at the hands of Michigan and Illinois last Saturday by a 71-70 count on a last-second basket by Audie Matthews.

"We're not out of it," said Purdue center Tom Scheffler, of St. Joseph. "It just means every game is a 'must' game. We've destroyed any buffer or leeway we had. The loss puts us in a position of being more desperate."

And Walter Jordan added: "The Big Ten champion is going to have more than one loss the way I see it, and we still play Minnesota and Michigan again."

Minnesota Coach Jim Dutcher isn't conceding a thing.

"They've still got a tough road ahead of them," said Dutcher of the Wolverines. "We're at a point where we've got to stay perfect and someone else has to help us out. This thing isn't over."

Three other games are scheduled this week with Illinois playing at Northwestern tonight and at Wisconsin on Saturday. Michigan State is at Ohio State Saturday in a regionally televised game.

Ali To Fight In Korea?

SEOUL (AP) — The South Korean government is favorably considering a proposed world heavyweight title bout between champion Muhammad Ali and an unnamed challenger here in early May, a local sponsor announced Thursday.

The newspaper Hankook Ilbo said that it already has initiated an agreement with American promoter Paul Cavino for staging the fight in Seoul.

Cavino told the Korean daily that Ali wanted to defend his title in Seoul when the promoter first approached the paper through its New York bureau last December, Hankook Ilbo said.

The champ was impressed when he was here last June at the invitation of Korean taekwondo (karate) officials after a fight against Japanese wrestler Antonio Inoki in Tokyo.

During the visit, Ali received a hero's welcome from South Koreans and said he would come back "soon" while visiting with American soldiers at Camp Casey, the site of the 2nd U.S. Infantry Division, northeast of Seoul.

NIU Tops Broncos In Battle Of Zones

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — It was a battle of the zone defenses again when Northern Illinois and Western Michigan squared off in a key Mid-American Conference basketball clash Wednesday night.

"But this time their zone was the big story," Western Coach Dick Shiltz observed after Northern downed the Broncos 68-60 to claim sole possession of second place in the league standings.

Northern's zone virtually shut off Western, with Mike Reardon's 12 points being tops for the Broncos.

"In the second half, Northern's offensive rebounding and second efforts were vital," Shiltz said.

"We had particular trouble then because we had to work against the set zone and because Northern scored so many times on second efforts. We had our fast break opportunities taken away from us."

The triumph improved Northern's MAC record to 7-2, keeping the Huskies just a half-game behind 8-2 Miami, who hung onto the top spot with a 64-56 victory over Kent State.

Western Michigan, at 6-3, plunged into fourth place behind Central Michigan, now 6-2 after an 85-72 verdict over Ball State (4-6).

In other MAC action, Eastern Michigan surprised Bowling Green 70-69 and Toledo trimmed Ohio University 75-74 in double overtime.

Matt Hicks paced Northern Illinois with 30 points, and Shiltz said "he's great. He's a valid All-American."

Archie Aldridge's 19 points and the outside shooting of Randy Ayers, who scored all 12 of his points in the first half against a tight Kent zone, helped Miami notch its victory.

Ben Poquette poured in 22 points and grabbed 15 rebounds as Central Michigan led Ball State nearly the entire game. The Chippewas displayed their best team effort on the boards, outrebounding Ball State 50-36.

Eastern Michigan's triumph over Bowling Green was its first in 18 MAC games over two seasons and snapped a nine-game losing streak, a skein that ironically began with a loss to Bowling Green. The Hurons pulled it out on Bob Walden's basket with one second remaining on the clock.

"Struggling certainly teaches you humility, but we've been trying—oh, how we've been trying," a relieved Eastern Coach Ray Scott said afterward.

"I decided we would try for the last shot," he said. "We were going to live or die with it, and tonight we lived."

Toledo finally pulled out its decision over Ohio on a free throw by Dave Speicher with four seconds remaining in the second overtime. Ted Williams pumped in 25 points for the Rockets, now 5-4 in the conference.

Williams Sparks Irish Victory

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Irish guard Don "Duck" Williams scored a career high 26 points to lead Notre Dame to a 91-73 college basketball victory over Holy Cross here Wednesday.

The Crusaders averaged 89.1 points per game coming into the contest, but Notre Dame's man-to-man defense limited them to 43.9, or 29 of 66, from the field.

The Irish never trailed in the contest. The Irish led 29-26 with 5:13 remaining in the first half when Rich Branning converted on a three point play. The Irish then went on to outscore Holy Cross 13-4 and lead 42-30 at the half.

By midway through the second period Notre Dame established an 18 point lead. The Crusaders never got closer than 11 points, 66-55, after they rallied with 7:29 remaining in the game.

Williams shot 10 of 18 from the field and 6 of 9 from the free throw line to lead Notre Dame's scoring. Junior forward Dave Batton added 19, Banning had 15 and Toby Knight added 12 during the second half.

Chris Potter, 6-foot nine-inch center, led the Crusaders with 25 points. Forward Mike Vincens had 13 before fouling out midway through the second half.

The victory was the sixth in a row and 14th overall for Notre Dame against five losses. Holy Cross suffered just its third defeat in 21 games.

The big Irish front line of Knight, Batton and Bruce Flowers combined for 29 rebounds, leading Notre Dame to a whopping 30-20 advantage off the boards.

Bill Doran and Potter topped the Crusaders with seven rebounds apiece.

BULLDOGS EXPLOSIVE

Covert, Bridgman Play Saturday

By JACK WALKDEN
Staff Sports Writer

COVERT — Explosive.

That one word explains how Bridgman coach Doug Hendricks feels about Covert's basketball express.

"They're probably as quick as anybody we've played against," Hendricks says. "And they jump real well. They tend to score in spurts."

With no player taller than 6-2, the Bulldogs have used that speed and explosiveness to put together a brilliant 14-2 record. And Covert, ranked sixth in the latest Associated Press Class D poll, may be the last major roadblock between Bridgman and a perfect regular season. The two Class D powers collide Saturday night at Bridgman.

Averaging 77.8 points per game, the Bulldogs are second in southwestern Michigan in scoring offense. But Covert coach Rod DeYoung still does not believe his team has reached its peak.

"Before Christmas we had a couple of games where we just overpowered teams with our quickness and speed," DeYoung explains. "But we haven't gotton back to that point since. Right now we're looking for consistency, both offensively and defensively. We're giving away too many easy baskets."

DeYoung opens with a front line of 6-1 senior Robert Maggard, 6-2 sophomore James DeBoe and 6-0 sophomore Jeff DeYoung, his son.

Maggard is the top scorer among the regulars, averaging 14.0 points per game. But it's some of the other important aspects of his game that pleases DeYoung the most.

"Robert has been rebounding well," DeYoung says. "He's probably our top rebounder. He's not shooting as well as I'd like to see him, but he jumps well for his size and has been going to the boards well.

"He's also an excellent defensive player. When we want to deny someone the ball, we put Robert on him. And even if his man gets the ball, he doesn't let him beat him."

DeBoe missed six games during the middle of the season after being declared scholastically ineligible. But DeYoung says "he's coming back from the layoff as well as we expected him to."

Consistency has been DeBoe's middle name this season.

"DeBoe is the type of player that you really don't notice until after the game is over and you look at the statistics," DeYoung says. "You can always count on him for about 10 to 12 points, 15 rebounds and a couple of blocked shots. His absence hurt him as well as the team."

DeYoung's son Jeff has been a strong board man for the Bulldogs and his other son Mike, who starts a guard, is an excellent shooter and defensive player.

Little 5-6 junior Steve Hawkins is the team's floor general.

"Steve does a great job as a leader," DeYoung says. "He's a good defensive player and can score. But he's not expected to score as long as he does the other things."

If there has been one trademark of the Bulldogs this season, it has been their depth. Heading a brilliant bench are the Stark brothers, George and Jerry.

Despite having started just one game so far, Jerry Starks is the top Covert scorer with a 10.3 average. The 5-8 sophomore sharpshooter has had games of 31 and 33 points off the bench thus far.

"I've tried to bring Jerry along a little slow," DeYoung says. "And I think it has paid off. He can come off the bench and play better than anybody I've ever seen. I've never seen nor had a better pure shooter. He can get off a shot as quick as anybody I've ever coached."

Starks is hitting 56 per cent from the floor.

Jerry's brother George adds 9.8 points off the bench. It was George who filled in for DeBoe during his absence.

"George is not quite as big (at 6-0), but he makes up for it with his quickness," DeYoung says. "He's the most inconsistent ballplayer we have, though. He'll have his good nights and he'll have his bad nights. But when he's having a good night, he's tough to stop."

Junior guard Jeff Maggett, a regular most of last season, also fills in adequately.

The only two teams to beat Covert this season, Kalamazoo Hackett and Marcellus, have had size. And that's also Bridgman's forte. The Bees, 11-0 and ranked second in the latest Associated Press Class D poll, sport a front line of 6-5 Bob Linke, 6-5 Howie Mutz and 6-6 Wolf Wolf. And that worries DeYoung.

"We're two entirely different teams," he says. "They're big and we're quick. We have to use our quickness to overcome their height. Anytime you play a team that's undefeated, it's always a challenge. There's no question that Bridgman's a fine team. And it's going to take a good night with a good team to beat them."

DeYoung is hoping that Covert is that team. But then Hendricks may have hit on the game's key.

"It's a test for us," he says. "Probably the key is going to be tempo. We've got to control the tempo of the ballgame. We have to keep them from putting several buckets back to back."

Decatur, Marcellus In SAC Showdown

Torrid Bud Race Resumes

Decatur could move into sole possession of first place in the Southwestern Athletic conference... but if the Raiders do, they will have to go about it the hard way.

Kurt Wiese, the Raiders' hot shooting guard who is averaging 17.2 points per game, will probably miss Friday night's key game with Marcellus. Currently, the Wildcats and Raiders are deadlocked at 6-1 in the SAC.

That game isn't the only one on Friday night which could go a long way towards straightening out league races.

Niles (7-2) and Battle Creek Lakeview (6-2) are currently second and third, repectively in the Big Seven and that duo will square off at Lakeview's court. St. Joseph (2-7) will be at home against Portage Northern (3-6).

Bud frontrunner Cassopolis (8-2) will host number two Brandywine (7-3) in a key game.

Benton Harbor, 4-2 and tied for the LMAC lead, will play fifth-place Mona Shores (2-4). But it was Shores who knocked off ranked Muskegon Catholic last Friday.

South Haven (9-3) will try and keep its half-game lead in the Wolverine when it travels to Gull Lake (3-8). But with the way the Wolverine squads have played on the road this season, literally anything could happen.

Coach Tom Gibson of Decatur says that the injury Wiese has is a badly sprained ankle with some tissue damage. "He is walking on it, but I'm not counting him in our plans for Friday night against Marcellus," he adds.

Sophomore Dennis Warkentien took over Wiese's spot in Tuesday's loss to Watervliet. "He's started once before and has been the sixth man all season, so there isn't that much more pressure on him," Gibson says.

The fact that Decatur came back from big deficits against the Panthers without Wiese has to please Gibson. "It gave the kids a boost to know they are a good team without Kurt."

Gibson doesn't expect Wiese to be back for a little while but the senior is going to see Jack Jones, Western Michigan University's trainer. Oddly enough, it was Jones who worked on Marcellus' Dave Mason and got him ready for last Tuesday's loss to Kalamazoo Hackett.

"Dave has a pulled groin muscle and had been out of practice for a week," reports Wildcats' head coach Joe Wood. "But he felt all right once he taped it up."

Without Wiese, Wood indicates that his team will run into some problems. "It will be like playing a team which we have never seen before," Wood moans. "I don't know if they will run a different offense without him in there."

The Wildcats will have to bounce back from that loss to seventh-ranked Hackett. "They hit 30 of 40 floor shots against us," Wood says. "They just kept working for the good inside shots."

Marcellus had problems handling the Irish's big man, 6-8 Mark Mindemann, but both teams will be just about evenly matched, height-wise Friday.

The first time around, Decatur posted a 76-74 win.

The Blossomland race is getting quite congested with the three top teams — Brandywine, Cassopolis and River Valley — all losing Tuesday. If the Bobcats, Mustangs and fourth-place Buchanan (7-4) all win, the race will be a full-fledged disaster.

If Niles wins its game against Lakeview and Loy Norrix loses to Portage Central, the Vikings will move into first place in the Big Seven. St. Joe, which is 5-10 overall, is rapidly approaching its first losing season in eight years.

Virgil Savage Hero For LMC

KALAMAZOO — Lake Michigan College remained in first place in the Western Collegiate basketball conference with a 101-100 victory over Kalamazoo Valley Community College here Wednesday night.

But it took some last second heroics by Virgil Savage to keep the Indians undefeated in 10 league games and 15-8 overall.

LMC got the ball back with 27 seconds and coach Lou Harvey decided to play for one shot, even though his charges were down by a 100-99 count. With four seconds left, Savage drove the middle and put up a five-foot glass-glazer which swished through.

Jerry McClinton led all scorers with 26 points for the Indians. Freddie Walker added 25, Savage netted 24, Greg Cole came through with 14 and Ray McClinton had 11.

For the Cougars, Rick Mitchell had 24, Kerry Williams 21, Robert Hunter 20, Alan Morehead 14 and Ricky Hubert 12.

LMC held a 56-49 lead at the half as unofficial charts had the Indians canning 26 of 34 field goal attempts (76.5). But Walker got into foul trouble and had to be taken out for a short spell in the second half and that allowed the Cougars to go out to a five-point lead.

So with eight minutes left, Harvey took a gamble and put Walker back in and also decided to burn some time off the clock. "We had to slow the ball down for three minutes just to keep from fouling so much," he stated.

"That three-minute stretch also helped us catch our breath," he added.

No Settlement In Sight In NFL Player, Owner Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — There appears to be no settlement in sight in the 3-year-old on-again, off-again negotiations between the National Football League owners and players union over a new collective bargaining agreement.

The result could be another round of law suits against the NFL by player agents who want to put their clients on the market to the highest bidder.

There was some confusion over whether the two sides had broken off negotiations over a new contract to replace the one which expired Jan. 31, 1974.

Bob Epstein, spokesman for the players, issued a brief statement Wednesday afternoon on behalf of Ed Garvey, executive director, in which he said: "After two days of negotiations there is absolutely no progress. It is now clear that the Feb. 15 deadline was unrealistic and there is little optimism on our side."

Epstein then said he did not know when the two sides would meet in the near future.

When asked for comment, Terry Bledsoe, spokesman for the NFL Management Council, said he had not attended the afternoon session and had no comment except that it was his understanding they were still meeting. A subsequent call to Epstein indicated that the two sides were still together.

The negotiations were being held at an undisclosed location, so all information had to come from the two spokesmen.

Garvey had set the Feb. 15 date as a deadline for reaching an agreement but the owners, although suggesting they also would like to have a signed contract by then, would not be as specific.

The pressure to reach an early agreement came last September when a federal judge declared the draft of collegiate players to be in violation of the antitrust laws.

An agreed-to contract would make it feasible to stage the draft.

Benko, Skibbe Key Roadrunner Win

MUSKEGON — Glen Benko tossed in 20 points and Joel Skibbe added 16 as Southwestern Michigan kept its slim Western Collegiate Conference hopes alive with an 87-82 win over Muskegon Community College here Wednesday.

The win upped SMC's league record to 6-3 and overall mark to 9-8. Muskegon fell to 4-5 and 8-10, respectively.

SMC raced out to a 53-46 halftime lead, but Muskegon twice tied the game in the second half, the last time at 80-80 with just over three minutes to play. A basket by Melvin Carpenter gave the Roadrunners the lead for good.

"We pressed full court and I think it was the difference," SMC coach Jim Tansey said. "It took them out of their game. They didn't have a chance to set up."

The game was decided at the free throw line where SMC meshed 13 of 15 (87 per cent) to Muskegon's eight of 12 (67 per cent).

Each team had 37 field goals, SMC taking 70 shots for 53 per cent and Muskegon 75 attempts for 49 per cent.

READY AT THE FIRST TEE: Former President Gerald Ford is flanked by his partners Sammy Davis Jr., Bob Hope and golf professional and defending champion Johnny Miller as they prepare to tee off in the opening round of the Bob Hope Desert Classic Wednesday. Hope had just made a remark about Sammy's golf game. (AP Wirephoto)

Massengale Tops Hope Classic

Celebrities Draw Crowds

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Johnny Miller was discussing the problems attendant to playing a round of golf with former President Gerald Ford, Bob Hope and Sammy Davis Jr.

The foursome played before a massive, enthusiastic, shouting gallery that lined every fairway four or five deep, was constantly moving, clicking cameras and calling words of encouragement.

"It's difficult," Miller said. "There is no advantage to playing in that group."

Then he paused and a mischievous grin flashed across his face.

"Wait until (Billy) Casper plays with him on Saturday," Miller said of Ford's fourth-round partner, a normally-placid veteran who angers only at crowd noises and camera clicks. "There'll be even more people. And Billy will finish with all his hair in his pocket."

Miller, who has won the last two Bob Hope Desert Classics, could do no better than a 74 in the company of the celebrities who drew a huge gallery to the Indian Wells Country Club for Wednesday's first of five rounds. This is a unique, 90-hole event that is spread over four courses in the desert resort where Ford plans his retirement home.

"That's about par, 74," Miller said. "That's what Arnold (Palmer) had at Pebble Beach" in another pro-am event with the former President as his partner last month.

While Miller was slashing his way to a two-over-par effort on probably the easiest of the four tournament courses, Rik Massengale, the runner-up last year, fired an almost errorless round of 64 in which he hit every green, missed only one fairway, didn't have a bogey and dropped putts totaling more than 50 yards in length.

He holed two birdie putts of 20 feet, two more of 30 and one from about 45 in establishing a three-stroke lead over Alan Tapie and Bruce Lietzke, the young man who has had such a sensational start this year. Lietzke's five-under-par effort, like Massengale and Miller, was at Indian Wells and marked the 17th consecutive round this season — 22nd going back to last year — in which he has been par or better.

A group of seven, headed by Hubert Green and Lanny Wadkins, was next, two more strokes behind at 69. Palmer, a five-time winner of this tournament, had a 73, while South African Gary Player opened his American season with a 70.

Individual amateur's scores are not compiled, since they are required to pick up once they are out of a hole. Ford's three-man team, however, was 11 under par, including their handicaps.

"The President has a good swing, a real good swing, but he was a little nervous starting off in front of all those people and was getting a little quick," Miller said. "I got him to slow down his tempo and he helped the team maybe four shots."

In a departure from normal procedure, Ford was scheduled to play with different amateur partners today — Flip Wilson and Saul Kamin, along with PGA champion Dave Stockton.

Hawkins Sinks 44 In Nets' Victory

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bubbles Hawkins exploded on the basketball court and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar nearly exploded off it.

Hawkins, whom the New York Nets signed as a free agent just two months ago, put on a one-man show Wednesday night, scoring a career-high 44 points to lead the Nets past New Orleans 93-89 in overtime in the National Basketball Association. Abdul-Jabbar went into the Buffalo stands to "discuss things" with a heckler after leading Los Angeles back into first place in the Pacific Division with a 105-90 verdict over the Braves.

"I still don't think I've arrived yet," Hawkins said after hitting for eight of the Nets' 14 overtime points in New York's comeback victory. "But it sure is nice to show people I can play."

One Braves fan's heckling finally got to Abdul-Jabbar. With 39 seconds remaining in the game, Abdul-Jabbar, who scored 32 points, went into the stands to confront the kibbitzer.

"The guy gave me a lot of derogatory remarks," Abdul-Jabbar said. "I asked him if he wanted to take it up personally. He didn't want to."

Elsewhere in the NBA, San Antonio outshot Detroit 135-129, Indiana overcame a 21-point disadvantage to edge the New York Knicks 110-109, Philadelphia sneaked by Milwaukee 107-104, Houston topped Chicago 108-103 and Atlanta defeated Seattle 99-98.

In a real shootout, the Spurs won only their seventh game on the road in 27 starts while handing Detroit its fifth home loss against 20 wins.

Detroit hit on 57 per cent of its shots, scored a team-record 43 points in the second quarter but, according to Coach Herb Brown, "we didn't play any defense."

San Antonio shot 56 per cent and had four players score more than 20 points, led by Larry Kenon's 29. Bob Lanier had 30 for Detroit.

Dave Robisch grabbed an offensive rebound and scored with two seconds left to cap Indiana's comeback. It was the first time the Pacers led since early in the game when they were on top 11-10.

Billy Knight scored 28 points, and John Williamson hit for 26 in his first game as a Pacer. Bob McAdoo scored 36 for the Knicks.

Lloyd Free scored 22 points to lead Philadelphia past slumping Milwaukee, which lost its fifth game in the last six and 13th out of 16.

The Rockets moved to within one-half game of first place Washington in the Central Division as Calvin Murphy scored 28 points.

Seattle collapsed in the final half-minute and allowed the Hawks to steal the game.

The Sonics Dennis Johnson, who led his team with 19 points, missed three straight free throws with 30 seconds remaining and Seattle ahead 98-95. After Atlanta's Len Robinson sank a pair five seconds later, the Hawks stole Slick Watts' pass. John Drew fired in a short jump shot with 15 seconds left for the victory.

Angry McGuire Inspires Marquette To Key Win

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

When Al McGuire starts screaming at his team, shutting the door on sports writers and recriminating himself, you know something's up.

Actually, it's the Marquette Warriors.

Psychologically, the Marquette coach has no peer. McGuire knows how to get a basketball team higher than a dunk shot — and that's apparently what he did Wednesday night to inspire Marquette to an 81-71 victory over Loyola of Chicago.

The ninth-ranked Warriors, mindful of a post-season bid to the NCAA playoffs, blew a 12-point lead in the first half and this inspired a fierce confrontation with McGuire at intermission.

"I thought at halftime we were in serious trouble," McGuire said. "We had to do it at the start of the second half, which we did. But I told them the second half might be the most important 20 minutes of the whole season, because if you blow it you'll never forgive yourselves."

Translated, that meant McGuire thought that a fourth loss would greatly injure the Warriors' chances for an NCAA bid.

Obviously dead serious about a national championship in his last year as coach, McGuire refused to allow newsmen to interview his players after the game. He said the policy would continue for a week so that the players can concentrate on their goal of a tournament bid.Butch Lee and Bo Ellis each scored 22 points for Marquette. The Warriors held a slim 36-33 lead at the half, but pulled away after intermission behind their top scorers. A 10-point flurry gave Marquette a 50-37 lead and later it was 68-51 with 5:55 left.

Elsewhere in college basketball, sixth-rated Louisville routed Southwestern Louisiana 103-82, 12th-ranked Cincinnati defeated Eastern Kentucky 78-60, 14th-ranked North Carolina walloped Maryland 97-70, 16th-rated Providence turned back DePaul 84-73 and 19th-ranked Detroit beat St. Bonaventure 78-62.

Louisville tied a school record by winning its 15th straight game. Rick Wilson and Darrell Griffith each scored 18 points for the Cardinals, who twice led by 34 points in the second half.

Brian Williams scored 15 points, Bob Miller 13 and Steve Collier 12 in a balanced Cincinnati attack that led the Bearcats over Eastern Kentucky. Cincinnati held a 49-26 halftime edge and led by as many as 29 points in the second period.

Walter Davis produced 25 points and 12 rebounds to lead North Carolina past Maryland. The Tar Heels led the entire game and at one juncture held a 29-point advantage.

Bob Cooper scored 24 points and collected 10 rebounds, leading Providence over DePaul. Terry Tyler amassed 21 points to lead the University of Detroit past St. Bonaventure.

In another game, Freeman Williams, the nation's leading scorer, poured in 71 points to lead Portland State past Southern Oregon 142-85. Williams' figure is the third highest in Division I history, surpassed only by Frank Selvy's 100-point outing for Furman against Newberry in 1954 and Bill Milkvy's 73 against Wilkes for Temple in 1951.

Shamrocks Champs

BERRIEN SPRINGS — The Berrien Springs freshmen clinched the Red Arrow title with a 59-47 win over Bridgman here Wednesday. Tracy Cochran hit 18 points, Todd Johnson 12 and Bill Shemharger 10 for the winners. Meyers had 16 for the Bees.

His Foes On Ice Show No Respect

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wendell Anderson is a United States senator, but his hockey opponents don't show the proper respect.

"Unfortunately, I don't get any special treatment," says the 44-year-old former Minnesota governor. But he can hold his own on the ice in a league with players mostly in their 20s.

"Yeah, they all know he's a senator," said his coach, Larry Lumsden. "Once he gets out on that ice he's just another hockey player. I'm sure he'll get hit, and I'm sure he'll hit back."

Anderson is no rookie. He was a defenseman for two University of Minnesota teams, two U.S. national teams and the U.S. Olympic team in 1956.

As governor he played regularly in a league of over-35 men to keep in shape. Now he is scooting, shooting and scoring goals for the Washington Olympics, an amateur team that permits more physical contact.

Asked if he can keep up with the younger men, he responds with a blunt, "No. It takes every ounce of energy." He said the games don't interfere with his work because they are late at night.

SUITING UP: Sen. Anderson, gets into his togs in preparation for game of hockey at skating rink in nearby Tysons Corner, Va. (AP Wirphoto)

READY: Sen. Anderson, hits ice for game. (AP Wirephoto)

A few weeks ago, Anderson voted on the Senate floor to confirm Griffin Bell as attorney general, then rushed out to the Ft. DuPont ice rink to score a goal, helping his team win 10 to 4.

Last Wednesday he helped his team to a 9 to 4 victory over the Bowie, Md., hockey club and joined in a pickup game at an ice rink near Vienna, Va., the next night.

His only complaint was that he was a little tired after two straight nights of competition and "I've got a kind of tennis elbow. It comes from years of shaking hands of strong Minnesota farmers."

Anderson was appointed after the fall election to replace Vice President Walter F. Mondale in the Senate. When he came to Washington he wanted to keep up the exercise that keeps him looking younger than he is.

While shopping for a house and staff, Anderson also looked around for a hockey club and found the Olympics.

In Minnesota he tours the state each year with an old-timers team to raise money for charity. He will do that again this year.

As a gesture to Anderson, the former Minnesota Fighting Saints in the World Hockey Association once announced they were drafting him.

"It was just a joke really, but I did get a kick out of it," he said.

Oil-Rich Isles Charcoal-Poor

By KENNETH L. WHITING
Associated Press Writer

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — In the United States this winter the natural gas shortage causes concern, but on the tropical Indonesian island of Java it's a lack of firewood.

Wood and charcoal are the main cooking fuels of Indonesia's rural millions.

Research Minister Sumitro Djojohadikusumo estimates that the world's fifth most populous country needs a ton of firewood per person each year, even though Indonesia is a major oil producer.

"It means that Indonesia needs 130 million tons of firewood yearly," Sumitro told a recent meeting of regional and municipal officials.

The worst shortages are in the Lumajang area of east Java and around Merapi in central Java, he said.

Villagers who gather or cut their own now must search longer and farther from home. Prices are increased by commercial wood and charcoal dealers who also help deplete the supply. Few of them cultivate trees for sustained yield.

Official sources tell of forest fires apparently set so the charred remains could be used to keep the home fires burning.

The resulting deforestation has caused soil erosion, silting of irrigation systems and flood problems, they said.

Statistics list 64.16 per cent of the country as forest, concentrated on Sumatra and Kalimantan (Borneo), not hard hit Java.

Java is a North Carolina-size island studded with smoking volcanos, waterfalls and rice paddies. It has less than seven per cent of Indonesia's 741,000 square miles, but is crowded with 87 million people.

One analysis published in World Environment Report estimated that the island's population density could reach "3,200 per square mile by the year 2000. Java would become a totally urbanized island which could touch off a chain of environmental disasters such as denuded forests, soil erosion and widespread pollution."

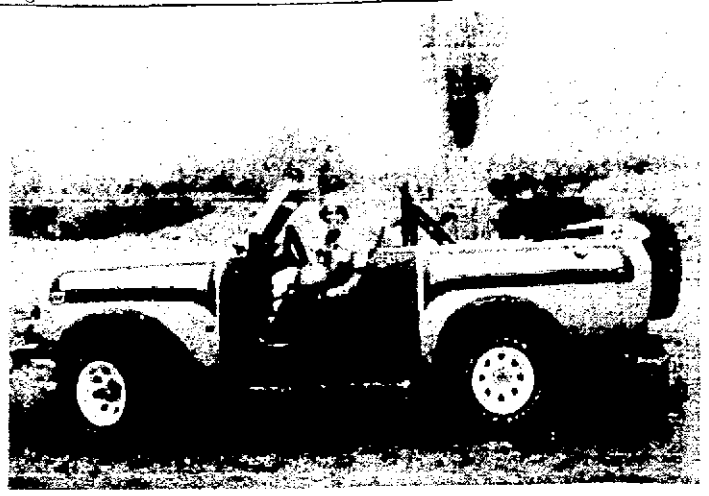
The lack of wood is directly linked to overpopulation, said a United Nations specialist in Jakarta.

"The amount of wood burned depends largely on the number of people who need it. If there are no alternative fuels, future firewood needs will mostly be in response to population growth," he said.

Indonesia has an extensive birth control program and encourages emigration from Java to its many less populated islands. However, experts say that for the forseeable future, too many will still be trying to survive on too little.

Sumitro said one medium term answer to the wood problem is regreening, as reforestation is called here. Reforestation is a top priority part of "Inpres," an acronym from the words presidential instruction. It's a WPA-like project designed to provide jobs for some 2.8 million people while improving the country's infrastucture.

Substitution of wood by other fuels, including solar heat, is a longer term possibility.



WINS AT PROVING GROUNDS: Mrs. James (Suzy) Gersonde of St. Joseph was first place winner in women's off-road driving contest staged at International Harvester Co. proving grounds at Phoenix, Ariz. She and her husband, who is president of Gersonde Equipment Co., Benton Harbor, were in Phoenix for dealers' preview of several new International Scout models recently. Mrs. Gersonde is seen in the new four-wheel Scout SS-II in which she topped the women's class over a desert terrain course. Other new Scout models shown to the dealers are the Suntanner, a three-way pickup; the Family Cruiser, a station wagon; the Street Machine, a van type, and the ORV, an off-road type. Gersonde Equipment is a Scout dealer and will be displaying these new models soon.

Bowling Ball Comes In Handy

CLARE, Mich. (AP) — Joe Manley had finished his night of bowling Tuesday but still found good use for his bowling ball and bag. Police said the Clare resident used the gear to nail two robbers.

Officers said Manley told them he was accosted by two men in a dark corner of the parking lot as he left Gateway Lanes. Manley said he swung the bag holding his bowling ball and knocked one robber unconscious. The other man ran.

So did Manley. Officers said by the time Manley finally flagged down a policeman, the unconscious robber had roused and run.

WE COPED WITH THE CRISIS. NOW WE MUST COPE WITH THE COST!

And ICB is ready to help with these 10 special assistance programs:

1. STORM DAMAGE LOANS

Just call 927-2251, or your nearest ICB branch office during normal business hours and fill out a storm damage loan application over the phone—without ever stepping out of your house. Upon approval, your check will be ready to take care of the damage winter has left. Old Man Winter may be at your door, but your Storm Damage Loan at ICB is as close as your telephone. Call 927-2251 for more details.

2. ROOF REPAIR LOANS

Heavy snows have caught a lot of us napping. If you were one of those who thought he could put off buying a new roof until spring, chances are your roof will give in before winter does.

Or, if you held off insulating your roof properly because you always weathered the storm in the past, think again—and fast. Call the same number for an ICB Winter Emergency Roof Repair Loan. We'll even take your loan application over the telephone.

3. FUEL PAYMENT LOANS

Current estimates are that our fuel bills can be as much as 45% higher than normal before we see an end to winter. To help you keep your cool and stay warm during these trying times, count on an Emergency Fuel Loan from ICB to help you pay your gas, oil and electric bills. To apply, just call your nearest ICB branch office. Upon approval you can pay your utility bills right up to spring—and you can repay by monthly payments for the period you apply for.

4. AUTO LOANS

Winter isn't through yet, but your car may be from dead batteries and overworked engines to fender bender accidents. Many of the cars we relied upon to see us through the season are finding it hard to make it through the night. Don't get caught out in the cold—get an Emergency Car Loan from ICB now, to put your current car back into first-class service or to buy a new car to carry you into spring.

5. AUTOMATIC PAYROLL DEPOSIT PROGRAM

If you had it months ago, you wouldn't have been driving yourself crazy to get yourself to the bank in a blizzard to have ready cash or pay your bills. Instead, your employer would have automatically deposited your pay check in your checking account for your immediate use. With more uncertain winter weather on the horizon, now's the time to make the move to automatic payroll deposit.

6. BANK-BY-MAIL

It only costs 13c to hire someone else to brave the storm and make your bank deposits—and ICB even pays for that. It's fast and easy, and one less thing you'll have to worry about—because the mail must get through, even if you can't. To get a bank-by-mail starter kit for savings or checking accounts, just call 927-2251 or your nearest ICB branch office and hire ICB and Uncle Sam to handle your banking.

7. NEST EGG SAVINGS

This winter proved one thing—everyone should be saving for a rainy day...or a snowy one, as we've all found out. Everybody's budget is bending these days under the weight of increased fuel costs, unforeseen car repairs, storm damage repairs and additional everyday expenses for warmer clothing and household items to combat the cold. If you haven't had an emergency bank account to meet unexpected problems like we've all seen this season, right now is the time to start.

8. EMERGENCY BANKING BY PHONE

If you have a special banking problem and can't get to us due to inclement weather, just call us at 927-2251 and see if we can't solve your problem over the phone. We can transfer funds from a savings account to a checking account, for instance, without your having to come into the bank.

9. SENIOR CITIZEN ASSISTANCE

If you are now having your social security or other government check sent to the bank through the Direct Deposit program, you can be sure the funds are in your account on the third of the month, regardless of the weather or the mail delivery situation. Realizing that senior citizens often have special needs, if you have a problem you think we can help you solve, just call the branch nearest you. If we can help, we certainly will.

10. AFTER THE THAW

With the amount of snow we've had this season, the possibility for water damage to home and property is a real one, particularly if we should have a quick thaw. If you suspect any damage to your home, be sure to have a qualified contractor make a thorough inspection. We're here to help you with a home repair loan should your home property require immediate attention.

UNION HALL 'SNOWBREAKING:' It was the official ground breaking for a new union hall for Local 18, International Association of Machinists, yesterday. But Local President Albert Romeo, Jr., couldn't dig deep enough into the snow to find dirt. Construction began in December at the site, just off US-33 in Hagar township. The 1,400 union members employed by Whirlpool Corporation's St. Joseph division will move their headquarters into the hall from their Benton Harbor hall in April. Estimated cost is $120,000, plus electricity and plumbing, Romeo said. Pictured from left are: (Front Row) Greg Brown of Robert E. NEW BUFFALO DOCTOR'S PROJECT

Haiti Gets Surplus Seeds

NEW BUFFALO — Some 20 tons of garden seeds that will produce vegetables for impoverished and starving people in Haiti are now bound for that Caribbean island, thanks in a great part to Dr. John Valantiejus of New Buffalo.

Dr. "Val" got the surplus seeds from Burpee Food Seed company of Warminster, Pa., and "prevailed," as he put it, upon Andrews university to haul the seed to Alabama where separate transport will take it to Miami and thence to the island nation.

It is the latest shipment of goods, foods and equipment that the 55-year-old physician has sent to the country over the last 15 years.

The seeds had been stored at the Gerber Babywear division of Gerber Products Co., Three Oaks, free of charge since October.

A spokesman said the original plan was for Dr. "Val" to rent a semi and drive the seeds to Miami , but that arrangements could not be worked out.

The seeds were loaded onto the Andrews truck Tuesday after being transferred into new shipping containers.

"These seeds," Dr. Valantiejus said in a telephone interview, "will feed a lot of people by fall."

The corn, peas, beans, carrots and other vegetable seeds should reach Miami by today and Haiti by ship by Sunday. Upon arrival, they will be distributed by missions in Haiti, Dr. Valantiejus said.

The country is so overpopulated, he said, that many of the people are on the verge of starvation.

The university's College Wood Products was sending an empty truck down to Birmingham, Ala., to pick up a load of chair legs and agreed to haul the seed free-of-cost to that point, he said.

He said he will pay for transportation costs to Miami and the sea transport to Haiti.

"I don't know what it will cost, but it is important that the seed gets there," he said.

In the last six months, he has also spent nearly $10,000 to ship 45 tons of beans and 24 tons of donated hospital equipment to the black nation.

Dr. Valantiejus has been practicing in the New Buffalo area since the mid-1950's. He and his wife Elizabeth have adopted 10 children.

Winterizing Grants Still Coming

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Eight community action agencies in Michigan will get an extra $184,400 in federal money to continue winterizing homes for the poor.

The federal funds will be used to hire 42 persons to work on caulking, insulating and repairing homes, according to Gov. William Milliken. It will permit the continuation of projects jeopardized by a shortage of money.

To qualify for the winterization repairs, family income must meet federal poverty guidelines — $5,500 for a non-farm family of four and $4,650 for a farm family.

The money will be sent to the Western U.P. Manpower Consortium, Six County Consortium for Employment and Training, Northeast Michigan Manpower Consortium, Region 7B Employment & Training Consortium and Calhoun County CETA. The five organizations include eight community agencies.

Another $84,585 was released to continue programs for the aging in the Six County and Northeast consortiums.

Is Miss Walters Worth Her Keep On ABC News?

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Over a year's time, a ratings point at night can earn a TV network at least $1 million, or what Barbara Walters earns co-anchoring the ABC "Evening News" and doing various specials.

But Bill Sheehan, head of ABC News, gets a bit weary when people keep noting that a one-point hike in ratings for ABC's "Evening News" show can pay a year's salary for Miss Walters'

JAY SHARBUTT
The ratings story

— making ratings increases beyond that one point sheer gravy for the network.

"That's not what the whole thing is about," he says. "In the first place, we're not relating the two things" — a rating point and her salary — "in any manner. They just don't go together."

And he says, those who think ABC hired her as a relatively inexpensive way to boost ratings fail to consider that ABC also boosted its 1977 news budget in "many multiples of Barbara Walters' salary" as part of a big push to improve the quality of the network's news operation.

He declined to specify, in cash terms, what those "multiples" come to, but said the matter of the magic ratings point and her salary "isn't something that causes any conversation here at all."

Miss Walters began coanchoring the ABC "Evening News" with Harry Reasoner on Oct. 4. How are the show's ratings compared to last year? An A.C. Nielsen official in New York, tallying completed estimates from the start of each season, provided these averages:

From mid-September 1975 through mid-January 1976, the Walters-less show was seen in 7,120,000 homes each week night.

From mid-September through mid-January this year, ABC's program, seen in about 4 million fewer homes than watched the top-rated CBS "Evening News," still was firmly holding down third place among network news shows.

But it was seen in more than 7.5 million homes, a gain of sixth-tenths of a ratings point. Sheehan was asked if that's about what he expected to happen.

"Honest to God, I didn't know what to expect," the ABC News chief said by phone from New York. "But I think we're on a steady upward curve — and not dramatic in terms of big percentages — of a perceptable increase in the (audience) levels. And that's what counts.

"You don't turn news audiences around very quickly," he added, meaning a massive shift of viewers to any network's news show. "It doesn't happen that way. Nobody has a quick turnaround."

During the interview, Sheehan denied a report (in the Chicago Daily News) that ABC is considering splitting up its New York-based news anchor team by moving Miss Walters to Washington this spring to co-anchor the show while Reasoner stays in Fun City handling his end of it.

"The fact is, we don't have any plans to move her," he said, adding that not even a trial separation is planned.

"We were down there (in Washington) for the inauguration and I would assume that when stories require it, one or the other will go down there now and then.

"But we have no plans to move or separate them. There's no reason to. We're very pleased with the way the show is shaping up now."

SORENSON: Carter may have hurt him.

FARRAH: She's not Lee's problem

Oscar Winner Finds Jobs Aren't Plentiful For Her

Q: What's happened to Louise Fletcher? It's been almost a year since she won her Oscar and she seems to have disappeared from view. — L.L., Ogden, Utah

A: Not quite, but it hasn't been that great a year for the actress. Her marriage broke up and she's been seen a lot with actor-producer Michael Douglas, who's 10 years her junior. And though she has a lead part in the sequel to "The Exorcist," the acting offers haven't been overwhelming despite her Oscar win.

Q: I read that Sterling Hayden was really drunk when he played the part of the boozed-up writer in the movie "The Long Goodbye." Is this true? Also, I see he's just written a book. Has he done others? — J.D., El Paso

A: Hayden was not drunk according to one report although he is a heavy drinker and did try to play the role while inebriated. When that didn't work, he asked director Robert Altman for permission to smoke grass and he was stoned during the whole performance. Hayden wrote an autobiography called "Wanderer," and now, 12 years later he has produced "Voyage," currently a best-selling novel.

Q: I just adore those old Fred Astaire movies. Is he pleased that his films go on forever? Any chance he'll do another dancing movie? — R.L., St. Louis

A: Fred thinks those endless Astaire revivals are nothing short of tedious. He hates nostalgia and at 77 thinks you should look forward — not back. Here's how forward Astaire is: He broke his wrist, recently, trying out a skate board.

Q: What was the real reason for the opposition to Ted Sorensen as CIA director? I know he finally withdrew his name as Carter's appointee. — B.L., Boston

A: The story around Washington is that Carter neglected to consult with the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence first about his choice. Insiders think Carter's number one problem may be his insensitivity to the courtesies one pays powerful Washington senators.

Q: Is there any professional rivalry between Lee Majors and his wife, Farrah Fawcett-Majors, now that she's a big TV star? — M.O., Rapid City, S.D.

A: None at all, since Farrah is an old-fashioned wife who defers to husband Lee in all matters. What doesn't sit right with Lee is that his contract with "The Bionic Man" series is much less lucrative than Bionic Woman Lindsay Wagner's — at least in terms of merchandise tie-ins and marketing.

Q: Is it true that President Carter doesn't have a sense of humor? He certainly smiles a lot. — I.C., Utica, N.Y.

A: The President has a good, wry sense of humor. Here's an example: He attended a super-secret lunch for top Washington diplomats recently where an Englishman stood up and asked a long-winded question. When the Englishman finally finished, Carter raised his hand and asked if he would mind repeating the question.

Q: I loved that book and movie "Born Free" and would like to know what the authors Joy and George Adamson are planning to do next? — S.L., Tulsa

A: The answer to that, alas, is to go their separate ways. The Adamsons just ended their 33-year marriage.

Q: What's happened to Carroll "Baby Doll" Baker? — G. McG., San Antonio

A: At 46, Carroll lives in Europe, dividing her time between Rome and London, where she eks out a living making cheapie movies. However, last summer she returned to the U.S. to replace Shelley Winters in Andy Warhol's "Bad," her first American movie in a decade. Currently she is seeing British actor Maurice Kaufmann, who was once married to Honor Blackman, while her two teenage children live in California near their father, director Jack Garfein.

Unwed Couples Over 1 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than a half a million unmarried couples are living together, the Census Bureau says. Although their number has doubled in the past six years, they are still a small minority.

The bureau's 1976 households survey, released Tuesday, said that the number of people living with unrelated members of the opposite sex went from 654,000 in 1970 to 1.3 million in 1976. They represented about 1 per cent of the total households, the bureau said.

MICHELIN FIRST
'We don't make a second best'

"There is no way that I, or anyone else in the government can solve our energy problems, if you are not willing to help."

President Jimmy Carter on February 2, 1977, in his televised address to the American people.

The President is talking to all of us.

The President states it clearly and well. There is a critical energy shortage.

The gas industry is in crisis. The electric power industry has generally been able to meet the demands of its customers. However, the extraordinary cold weather that has gripped much of the nation has strained even this industry's capacity to serve.

There is a need to conserve our energy, and make "mutual sacrifices," as the President says.

And, as we have communicated to him, prompt conservation efforts must also be accompanied by immediate steps to assure an adequate energy supply.

In order to develop an adequate electric power supply, several obstacles must be recognized and overcome. The electric generating plants that are straining today must be reinforced and supplemented by additional plants tomorrow, both fossil fuel and nuclear.

The President also said, and we agree, that we must step up the development of fossil fuel, especially coal, as well as other viable resources.

An adequate energy supply is so fundamental, so vital to us as a people and as a nation, we simply must find solutions that people of good will can agree on.

All of us, not just here, but everyone, everywhere, must work together to solve this critical national problem. And conserving energy is one effective way each of us can help.

Working together is the only way.

Series Won't Die With Star

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The popular NBC comedy "Chico and the Man" will resume production Feb. 14 but its young star Freddie Prinze, who took his own life recently in despair over his marriage and other problems, will not be replaced.

Irwin Segelstein, NBC's programming chief, said Tuesday that no contract had been signed yet that would renew the series for a fourth year. But he said the series probably would return.

Refuses Higher Pension

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A former state lawmaker says he will refuse higher state pension benefits he is entitled to under a legislative pay raise. U.S. Rep. Dale Kildee, a former state senator, said Wednesday he will not collect some $1,500 in extra pension money each year because he does not feel he is entitled to it. He said he has returned $154.10 the state paid him for 2½ days of service before he was sworn in as a United States congressman. Kildee, a Flint Democrat elected to Congress in November, resigned his Senate seat at noon Jan. 3, when he was sworn in in Washington. However, a state pay hike boosting legislative salaries from $19,000 to $22,500 took effect Jan. 1. Since Kildee was officially a state lawmaker for 2½ days after the pay hike began, he was entitled to the higher pension.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Market Setback Is Eased

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market chalked up some scattered gains today in a technical rebound from Wednesday's broad setback.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks gained more than a point in the early going. Advances outnumbered declines by a small margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Brokers traced the upturn largely to internal market forces. They said investors were still expecting economic statistics in the immediate future to show the adverse effects of bad weather this winter.

Government reports were due today on January retail sales and Friday on wholesale prices for January.

Today's prices included Northwest Airlines, down 1/8 at 25 5/8; Texaco, off 1/8 at 28, and Digital Equipment, up 1/2 at 44 1/4.

On Wednesday the Dow Jones industrial average fell 8.40 to 933.81, bringing its loss since the start of the year to more than 70 points.

Losers outnumbered gainers by more than a 5-2 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume reached 23.64 million shares, against 24.04 million on Tuesday.

The NYSE's composite index lost .47 to 54.86.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index dropped .81 to 112.43.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

Financial Planning At 15 Not Too Early

By SAM SHULSKY

Q. I am a 15-yer-old high school student in need of advice. In the law few years I've bought odd lots of Microwave wassociates, Addressograph, RCA. Should I make any changes to increase dividends? I consider these as my retirement fund.

A. Retirement from what? High School? I've had letters from foresighted readers before, but this one wins, hands down.

Seriously, there's nothing wrong with a youngster being interested in stocks. In fact, I'm all for it. But don't let your course be altered by dividends. Go with stocks which you think will appreciate in market price over the years.

Q. I'm a widow who recently inherited one-third of a farm which has been tenant-farmed with the former owner receiving $3,000 — one-third of the total profits. I wonder whether I should buy the remaining two-thirds (48 acres at $600 to $800 per acre).

A. If I've got the figures straight, I can't see it as a straight income situation. (Of course, potential gain in land prices and any tax benefits as items I can't evaluate.)

You say the former owner of the 72 acres received $3,000 as his share of the annual profits. That's hardly a glamorous return on 72 acres of land worth even $600 an acre, or $43,200, total. There may be, I repeat, other considerations; potential gain, tax credits, farm credits of one sort or another. BUt $3,000 profit from a $43,200 investment is not exceedingly generous at a time that much money in AAA bonds would bring about $3,300 to your mail box every year with no ownership or crop worries. Better get some expert farm accountant help in arriving at an exact final figure before you put nearly $30,000 more into the venture.

Q. We are in our late 20s with a combined income of $33,000. We could get a GI mortgage loan. Would it be wise to buy a house, thereby gaining tax benefits and a chance at appreciation in the value of our property?

A. There's no way I can field such a question since I can't compare maintenance costs for a house with your rental expenses — knowing neither. I do not believe home ownership should be gone into merely for any income tax advantage.

Appreciation is real estate has been sensational in certain areas, but I feel that so long as you have to continue living in houses, the rise in market value is rarely more meaningful than switching from one "up" escalutor to another. I'm afraid only you can do the arithmetic — including the tax advantages.

Q. I own $10,000 in E bonds. If I cash in $600 a year, how long will the money last?

A. Since the $10,000 stake grows by $600 year, it should last "forever."

Q. Recently I read that stock certificates have been eliminated. True?

A. Not true. It is true that the Stock Exchange's depositary system (CEDE) has substantially reduced physical transfer of stock certificates to a bookkeeping operation. But the certificates are there — billions of dollars worth. Also, the popular and growing dividend reinvestment system has substituted computer records for fractional shares so acquired. And the Federal Reserve has insituted a "book-entry" system for Government bonds. But in most cases, actual stock certificates are still being bought and sold, and transferred, and — alas — lost.

Awards Banquet Feb. 16

Presentation of "Academy Awards" in technical communication is scheduled when the Southwest Michigan Chapter, Society For Technial Communication (STC), holds a dinner meeting Feb. 16 at the Holiday Inn on I-94 and M-139 Benton Harbor.

Del Sabin, chapter president, said another highlight will be talk by Dr. W. Earl Britton, internationally recognized teacher, author, and lecturer on useful technical communication skills.

Dr. Britton is professor emeritus at University of Michigan. He was among the first to recognize the need for those with communications skills to work with scientists, engineers, and others to achieve accurate transmission of technical knowledge, both within the specific discipline and with the public at large. Many have taken his annual one-week course in technical writing.

Sabin, of Whirlpool Corporation, said the 22 award winners in the communications contest will be presented certificates noting their achievements. Winners in the two highest catagories — Award of Distinction and Award of Excellence — are automatically entered in the STC International Contest for Technical Communicators. Names of all area winners will be announced at the Feb. 16 meeting.

Those interested in attending the meeting are welcome, but dinner reservations are required. These may be until p.m. on Feb. 16 with Del Sabin at the Whirlpool Corporation Service Training Center, phone (616) 926-5352, or with William Matthews, the Heath Company, St. Joseph, phone (616) 982-3200. The social hour begins at 6:30 p.m. Dinner will be served at 7:00.

FOR NATURE CENTER

Purchase Of Bog Has No Objections

BUCHANAN — No major objections were voiced last night about the Berrien county parks and recreation commission's (PRC) plans to purchase 68 acres of land in Buchanan township for a nature center, according to Charles Barnes, PRC director-naturalist.

Barnes said the PRC will review comments made at the informational meeting attended by some 30 people last night at Buchanan township hall and make a decision on the land purchase at the commission's next meeting March 9.

The land the PRC is seeking to buy is know as the Mud Lake bog off Elm Valley road just west of West Clear Lake road.

Barnes said the PRC wants to purchase the Mud Lake bog for a nature study center and conservation area because it is a "perfect example of bog succession" and contains a number of endangered species of plant life.

The estimated purchase price for the land is $20,000, according to Barnes, and the PRC has already received $5,000 from the Highcliff Terrace Garden club and is scheduled to receive $5,000 in Berrien county funds to purchase the land. Barnes said the PRC will use the $10,000 to provide a match for a $10,000 grant from the Soil Conservation Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Barnes said if the purchase of the land is approved by the PRC, an appraisal of the land will be made and the purchase will be negotiated with the owner, Fred Archer.

Part of the property was formerly used by Buchanan township as a landfill for refuse.

Man Cuts Off Power At Ramada

Electrical power was cut off and telephone service disrupted for about an hour at Ramada Inn, Benton township, after a man allegedly pulled switches and damaged telephone relays in the inn's storeroom, according to state police of the Benton Harbor post.

Troopers said Duane Pociask, 23, of 232 Bellview, Benton Harbor, was booked at Berrien county jail on charges of assault and disrupting telephone service.

Troopers said Pociask hid in the storeroom after he allegedly swung an empty soft drink bottle at two other patrons in the lounge. Troopers said John C. Coburn Jr., 23, Watervliet, and Bruce Borst, 26, Eau Claire were not injured.

A Mattawan man was arrested and booked at Berrien county jail early today on three charges including possession of a firearm with a mutilated serial number, Benton township.

Patrolman Gary Ruhl said he stopped James W. Foster, 36, because Foster's car was weaving across the center line on M-139 near Nickerson avenue. Ruhl said he found a shotgun with filed off serial numbers in the back seat. Foster also was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol and possessing open intoxicants in a motor vehicle.

An Oronoko township man went next door to have lunch with his father Wednesday, and when he returned he found his house had been looted of goods valued at $500, Berrien county sheriff's deputies reported.

Tim Lemon, 23, of Route 1, Lemon Creek road, told sheriff's deputies he returned after being gone an hour to discover that $280 cash, two shotguns and a .22 caliber rifle were missing.

Under preliminary figures released by Gove Associates, a Kalamazoo engineering firm, monthly sewer use costs could be as high as $12 to $26 for Gobles city; $19 to $28 for the Mill lake area; $18 to $26 for Pine Grove township and Brandywine lake areas; $17 to $25 for the Kendall and North lake areas.

The hearing, to come during a regular city commission session, will focus on results of a $30,000 sewer feasibility study conducted by the engineering firm.

In other action, Alfred Tague, the city's new police chief, announced he is working with the Van Buren sheriff's department to get a telephone hookup that will Provide 24-hour police response to telephone calls made to the Gobles department.

Hartford Township Proposing Outdoor Assembly Regulation

HARTFORD — The Hartford township board last night introduced a proposed new ordinance which if approved would regulate the size of outdoor assemblies in the township.

The proposed ordinance would require a license and a surety bond of up to $20,000 in order to protect the township and adjoining property owners against all loss, injury, damage, or clean-up costs on gatherings of 500 people or more.

The proposed ordinance came as a result of several "rock" concerts held in the township the past two years. Residents on property adjacent to the concert sites have complained to the board of excessively loud music and harassment from concert goers.

Exceptions to the ordinance would be the Van Buren county youth fair; any event conducted or sponsored by a governmental unit on public property; any event which is conducted in the confines of a permanent or enclosed and covered structure; any event conducted or sponsored by an agricultural or horticultural society or association incorporated under Michigan laws.

In other areas township officials were notified by the Van Buren county road commission that bids will be let on March 16 for construction of a replacement bridge over the Paw Paw river on 70th avenue (County Line road). Construction is expected to begin by May 1. The bridge was damaged when hit by a pickup truck in late 1975.

A resolution was approved to send letters to all legislators requesting federal aid for snow removal. All communities in Van Buren county have been requested to send similar letters.

Helen Mayhak, township clerk, was instructed to write a letter to the Hartford fire department, commending the department for the excellent job done during the recent heavy snowstorm. According to Peter Sinclair, fire chief, the department handled 124 requests for assistance and provided food and lodging for 32 stranded motorists. Total man hours expended in the operation totaled 1,138. Cost of the snow weekend operation totaled $8,896, he said.

Pipestone Extends Deadline

EAU CLAIRE — The Pipestone township board has extended the deadline for paying 1976 taxes without penalty from Feb. 15 to Feb. 28, according to Richard Skibbe, township treasurer.

If tax payments are paid before the Feb. 28 deadline a late payment fee will not be collected, he said.

Emission Standards Rapped

WASHINGTON (AP) — United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock said Wednesday Congress should delay the imposition of more stringent standards for auto emission controls. Siding with the auto industry, Woodcock told a Senate Public Works subcommittee hearing that the standards scheduled under law are unnecessary and unfeasible. Unless the law is changed, more stringent requirements will take effect for 1975 model automobiles. Representatives of General Motors, Ford, Chrysler and American Motors also urged an easing of the standards.

Decatur Man Bound For Trial

PAW PAW — A Decatur man whose arrest sparked accusations of police brutality was bound over to Van Buren circuit court Wednesday on a charge of resisting arrest.

Bound over following Seventh district court preliminary examination by Judge William C. Buhl was Tony Dyrez, 23.

Dyrez is accused of assaulting Decatur police officer Donald Adams on New Year's Eve after Adams had sought to arrest him on a charge of driving under the influence of intoxicants.

Adams was suspended with pay following a Jan. 3 Decatur village council meeting at which several persons accused him of brutality during the incident. Dyrez suffered a black eye and Adams two broken ribs during the fracas.

A subsequent state police investigation cleared Adams of the brutality allegations, and he was reinstated to duty by the council on Jan. 19.

Dyrez has requested a jury trial on the driving under the influence charge, but no date has yet been set.
